SUGGESTIONS FOR BETTER CURRENCY

DETAILS OF MANY PROJECTS ARE SUBMITTED.

CENTRAL BANK MUCH FAVORED

PRESIDENT AND SECRETARY CORTELYOU HEAR OPINIONS.

IS HARD PROBLEM TO SOLVE

Congress Is Expected to Take Some Action on Currency Question. Bill Providing for Government Bank Will Be Presented by Senator Hansbrough.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Details of many new projects for improving the currency are being submitted to the President and Secretary Cortelyou, and are receiving such attention as the other exigencies for the financial situation permit. Secretary Cortelyou is a good listener and usually digests quickly all the essential points of the various plans which are submitted to him. Measures relating directly to the currency, which are being discussed among bankers und incoming members of Congress, may be roughly grouped under four heads: A central bank of issues, a central organization of the existing national banks, the issue of additional circulation against various classes of bonds other than United States bonds, and the issue of the circulation upon general assets with the securities of a guaranty fund.

The project of a central bank, based upon the general outlines of the Bank of France or the Imperial Bank of Germany, has apparently been attracting more attention of late than any previous time in recent years. Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota, who is a member of the finance committee, has announced that he will introduce a bill for such an institution. Mr. Wexler, vice president of the Whitney-Central National bank of New Orleans is openly in favor of a central bank and says that the New Orleans press, taught by the strain of the cotton situation, is generally with him.

Ridgely Favors Central Bank.

Those who favor a central bank point to the recent crisis as the best evidence of the aid which it could have afforded, had it been in operation. Their view is that the national banks would have been able to rediscount their paper at such an institution and obtain its notes to an amount necessary to relieve the strain. It is considered somewhat significant, in some quarters, that Mr. Ridgely, the comptroller of the currency, has just declared for a central bank of issue, after having in previous reports recommended only a general credit currency for the existing banks. The utterances of Mr. Ridgely are not, however, considered to commit the administration, since Treasurer Treat has a different plan which he is advocating whenever he is invited to deliver a public address on the subject.

It is so long since a central bank existed, or was even seriously discussed in the United States, that there is much difference of opinion as to the details of the organization. Those who advocate it generally insist, however, that the secretary of the treasury and the comptroller of the currency should be ex-officio members of the board of directors and that the President should appoint or approve the selection of the head of the bank. The provision of the German bank charter, in regard to circulation, is that after a certain fixed limit of circulation, additional issues, which are not covered dollar for dollar by gold, should be taxed at the rate of 5 per cent. Others, however, prefer the greater freedom of the French system, where the volume of note issues is practically under the control of the bank and where the accumulation of a large reserve permits the bank to serenely maintain a rate of discount much lower than that of the Bank of England or the Bank of Germany, while other countries are in the throes of financial convulsions.

Combination Project.

The project of combination among the national banks through their clearing house commission or otherwise, to guarantee a special circulation in case of emergency, is embodied in several plans, which have been submitted to the secretary of the treasury. While these plans are declared by experts to have some degree of merit, it is feared that they are too complicated to receive attention in Congress. So far as the plans require voluntary action by the banks, this might be difficult to obtain so far as they compel action by law. It is felt by some that such a policy would be drastic, if not unconstitutional, in compelling the banks to make use of their assets which they might not desire to make.

Most of the plans at previous sessions of Congress have dealt with the question of increasing the elasticity of the circulation issued by national banks by permitting issues on other securities than United States bonds. There is a radical difference of opinion, however, between the two schools of thought as to the nature of these additional issues. The plan proposed by Representative Fowler, chairman of the house committee on banking, provides for the issue upon the general credit of the bank, with provisions for a guaranty fund raised by taxation on circulation. This guaranty fund is to be employed, when necessary, to redeem the notes of failed banks. It is the contention of Mr. Fowler, and others who favor this plan, that a tax of about one-twelfth of 1 per cent annually, upon the circulation, would meet all losses, but in order to insure absolute safety, they propose that the tax shall be very much larger than this.

In Harmony With Other Measures.

The principle of the Fowler bill is in harmony with two other measures, which attracted considerable attention a year ago, namely—the bill of the special commission of the New York chamber of commerce, which was indorsed unanimously by the chamber in 1906, and the plan of the special committee of the American Bankers association, which was indorsed almost unanimously at the annual convention of the association at Atlantic City in September last. The plan of the chamber of commerce proposed issue from the general credit of the banks to the amount of 5 per cent of the capital and under such rates of taxation, 2, 3 and 4 per cent, and to the amount of 10 per cent of capital at each of the rates of 5 and 6 per cent. This permitted the total issues to the amount of 35 per cent of capital or about $280,000,000, but it was contended that no more than half of this, taxed up to the rate of 4 per cent, could be kept in circulation under ordinary conditions. The plan of the bankers association provides for issues to the amount of 25 per cent of capital under a tax of 2 1-2 per cent and 12 1-2 per cent of capital under a tax of 5 per cent. The bankers' plan, therefore, permitted larger issues upon an average lower rate than the chamber of commerce plan.

Both these proposals are declared by their advocates to be very conservative.

UPHEAVAL FEARED

PORTUGAL IS ON THE EVE OF A REVOLUTION.

A REPUBLIC IS INEVITABLE

People Are Hostile to the Dynasty and the Army Is Disaffected—If King Does Not Abdicate, War, With All Its Consequences, Is Certain.

PARIS, Nov. 25.—A special dispatch from Madrid to the Echo De Paris says it is rumored that collisions have occurred between the troops and insurgents in Lisbon and that many persons have been killed and wounded.

Persons arriving from Lisbon, the dispatch states, report that Colonel Tasta, aide-de-camp to King Carlos, has resigned, and that several regiments of doubtful loyalty have been disarmed. All leading politicians, the dispatch adds, are being shadowed by the detectives, and many persons are leaving the country. The king has refused to sign a decree extending martial law.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Reports representing that Portugal is on the eve of a revolution are received here with caution, as dispatches coming directly from that country have been censored, and those indirectly across the frontier are held more or less under suspicion. Both the reports of banishment of the crown prince and the mutiny of the fleet are denied at the embassy here, nevertheless the making of arrests, the suspension of a newspaper and other repressive measures indicate that matters in Portugal have entered upon a critical phase.

This condition undoubtedly has been precipitated by the interview with King Carlos, which was published last week, in which he announced his absolute faith in Premier Franco and his intention to allow the premier to choose the time for the holding of the election of the cortes. The parliamentary opposition, which has been stirring up the country for months past, was expected to culminate in a gigantic demonstration January 2 next to force the king to dismiss Premier Franco, but his majesty's bold indorsement of the dictatorship removes this hope abruptly, consolidating the entire opposition in the direction of republicanism. Senor Lima, the proprietor of the newspaper Vanguardia of Lisbon, which was suppressed, is now in Paris and considers that a republic is inevitable and that the issue will be decided before January 1. He declares that the people are hostile to the dynasty and that the army is disaffected. "If the king abdicates," he said, "there will be a peaceful republic, as in the case of Brazil. If he does not, there will be revolution with all its violent consequences."

Scandalous Political Conditions.

A correspondent of the Temps, who has just returned after an investigation of affairs in Portugal, and who has had an interview with King Carlos, Premier Franco and ex-Premier Castro, ex-minister of justice, as well as opposition leaders, makes it clear that the situation is the outgrowth of scandalous political conditions and affairs which have been endured for years. The main object of the members of the progressive and regeneration parties alike, under the rotative system, he says, was to preserve personal emoluments, and, whether in office or out, they protected each other's sinecures, while, at the same time, the members of the royal family got "advances" which were never paid.

Premier Franco, when he assumed the dictatorship, cut off the parliamentary sinecures, arousing the fury not only of the politicians, but the courtiers as well, even the queen mother. On the other hand he legalized the king's advances and increased his allowances by decree on the ground that the civil was so insufficient that the royal family were obliged to sell the crown jewels.

BARGAIN STOCKS STILL IN DEMAND

INVESTMENT IN STANDARD SECURITIES CONTINUES.

MATERIALLY HELPS SITUATION

RAILROAD SECURITIES ARE MOST POPULAR.

BANKS ARE STRENGTHENED

Securing of Gold Direct From France Most Important Development of Past Week—Concealed Drain on Banks Has Come to an End.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Investment buying in small lots of railroad and industrial securities in Wall Street still continues unprecedented in volume, and stock transfer officers are overwhelmed with work transferring the names of new securities holders. This enormous odd lot buying, bringing as it does thousands of dollars into circulation, has been in progress several weeks and is doing more than anything else perhaps to strengthen the currency conditions.

Transfer books show a record-breaking number of stockholders and in the case of the Northern Pacific railway the number of stockholders has more than doubled in the last six months. There are now 9,000 shareholders, while the transfer books six months ago showed only 2,000 names. Within the last year the number of stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio has leaped from 1,200 to 2,200. The large number of new shareholders of the Great Northern has swamped the transfer department of the company with work, and figures of the increase of new shareholders are not obtainable, although Vice President Nicholls stated today that from November 11, 1901, to November 14, 1907, the books showed an increase of 488 per cent. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul took on over 1,200 stockholders in the six weeks preceding November 15.

Odd Lot Buying Helps Situation.

James L. Carter, manager of the transfer department of J. P. Morgan & Co., states that there appears to be no diminution of the odd lot buying which has been in progress since stocks have fallen to bargain levels. The average number of shares purchased by stockholders, according to Mr. Carter, varies from 30 in the case of Northern Pacific to 50 shares, as shown on the books of the Chesapeake & Ohio.

"It is this buying," said Mr. Carter, "that is doing so much to help the situation. While the average number of shares purchased varies from 30 to 50, there are no end of purchases of three shares and upward.

Good Influence on the Wane.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The announcement, before the beginning of last week's operations, of the government's offering of $50,000,000 of Panama bonds and of $100,000,000 of one-year 3 per cent treasury notes, aroused bright expectations of decisive results in breaking the currency famine by the attraction that would be offered to hoards of money in absolutely secure government obligations, during a period of distrust of usual investment facilities. The good influence of the measure on sentiment waned during the week, principally by reason of the complexities discovered in the working out of the project. Detailed information was not made public of the amounts being subscribed by private capital. On the part of the banks, the preparation to participate in the issue were found to affect the money and exchange markets to some extent, and there was much confusion in estimating the working out of the effects of the transaction.

Meantime, the inflow of gold from abroad continued in a steady stream and large additional engagements continued to be made. For the first time during the present movement, the Bank of France furnished part of these supplies, the transaction being based on commercial bills of exchange.

Banking Situation Strengthened.

The new source of supply, thus opened up, is considered of great importance. Various indications served to prove how far the general banking situation had been strengthened by the heavy withdrawals from New York and forwardings of incoming gold as it arrived. Thus the reports of conditions of Illinois state banks, in response to the call of the state auditor, showed an increase of many millions in cash holdings compared with the previous report in August, which outstanding obligations had been heavily reduced. The Canadian banks made reports in response to a similar official call during the week and these voted a like showing, which proved the large drain from New York to that destination with an accompanying scaling down of loans on call without the dominion, largely placed in New York stock market.

Bankers are awaiting the next call from the United States comptroller of the currency, the usual period for which is now past. There is a growing conviction that response to this call will show the general banking position so fortified by the strong current of cash, which has flowed out of New York and out of foreign sources, that the feeling of mutual suspicion and distrust which have been by far the most potent factors in the recent embarrassment, will quickly die out. A prompt resumption of normal banking conditions will be looked for as a consequence.

Drain on Banks Ended.

The weekly bank statement of the New York clearing house banks was heralded as decisive of the definite turn toward betterment in the New York banking situation. Loans contracted for the first time since that crisis developed and the small cash decrease was evidence that the concealed drain on the banks has come to an end, the decrease proving less than was promised by the known movements of money, in spite of the throwing out of the computation, the $13,000,000 gold arrivals on Saturday, which were belated for a day by a fog.

The stock market was under intermittent pressure last week which was severe in special stocks and at intervals of time. At other times the stock market showed symptoms of recovery, which was slight, however, and attributed in large part to covering operations by professional bears. The weakness was assigned by general belief to a resumption of liquidation of a kind which was withheld from the market, during its period of demoralization by the powerful influences and resources of the interested parties, but on condition of closing out of accounts and payment of indebtedness as soon as the market subsided into more orderly conditions. It was curtailed also that the practical subjection of the affairs of New York banks to the centralized control of the clearing house authorities

CLEVELAND CRITICALLY ILL

Former President Suffers Relapse of Old Intestinal Trouble at His Home in Princeton.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—According to a report received tonight, former President Grover Cleveland is again seriously ill at his home in Princeton. He is said to have suffered a relapse of the old intestinal trouble which affected him last June. The present attack, it is said, developed on Thursday last, and although severe, it is said Mr. Cleveland showed considerable improvement on Friday. Details of his condition could not be learned at his home tonight. Beyond an admission that he was "very ill and confined to his bed," no information was given out.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, with a party of friends, had arranged for a trip to Auburn, N. Y., and the start was to have been made on Friday, but the trip was abandoned.

UNABLE TO AGREE

STEVE ADAMS JURY DISCHARGED BY COURT.

EIGHT IN FAVOR OF ACQUITTAL

Five Ballots Were Taken, All With the Result That Four Men Held Out for Conviction—Darrow Left to Take Charge of Pettibone Case.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 24.—A special from Rathdrum, Idaho, to the Spokesman-Review, says:

The jury in the Steve Adams murder case was discharged at 5:45 o'clock this afternoon, being unable to agree on a verdict, after being out since 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The jury stood 8 for acquittal and 4 for conviction. Jurymen J. F. House, Charles Dittemore, D. W. Garwood and S. A. Varnum were the four men who believed Steve Adams guilty of the murder of Fred Tyler in the Marble Creek district of Shoshone county, Idaho, in August, 1904.

RATHDRUM, Ida., Nov. 24.—At 3 p. m., the Steve Adams jury sent a note to Judge Woods that it had not agreed upon a verdict and that the jurors are still deliberating.

Five ballots were taken, all with the same result. The jury was ready to report at 3 o'clock, but the court conferred with attorneys for both sides and it was agreed to keep the jury out a little longer.

Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for Adams, tried to obtain concessions of bail for Adams and of immunity from arrest by Colorado authorities until the Tyler case is disposed of. No promise was given him. Sheriff Bailey of Shoshone county is here with a warrant for the arrest of Adams on the charge of murdering Edward Boule, near the same place and at about the same time the Tyler murder occurred.

It is understood that Adams is not to be taken to Colorado at present and that the state will not oppose efforts to get bail for Adams in the Tyler case. Darrow will later make an application for bail for his client, but will now hurry to Boise for the Pettibone case.

Hawley, chief counsel for the state, declared the disagreement of the jury would have no effect on the prosecution of the Tyler case, nor will it lessen the effort of the state to prosecute in other cases wherein Western Federation of Miners officials and prominent members are defendants. Mr. Hawley is disappointed at the verdict. Darrow says the defense expected an acquittal.

THAW TO ASK FOR CHANGE OF VENUE

FAIR TRIAL IMPOSSIBLE IN NEW YORK COUNTY.

POSTPONED A SECOND TIME

CASE WILL NOT BE CALLED UNTIL AFTER HOLIDAYS.

DEFENDANT STILL CONFIDENT

Advises Daily, With His Counsel, Chief of Whom Is Martin W. Littleton of Brooklyn—Chafes at Delay in Getting Story Before Second Jury.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The second trial of Harry Kendall Thaw, set for one week from tomorrow, will again be postponed, and there is little chance that it will be called until some date well along in January. The decision to ask for a postponement has been agreed to by both sides. It is due partly to the fact that the task of selecting a jury would be made doubly hard by the approach of the holidays, and the prospect of the talesmen spending both Christmas and New Years day locked up under the care of court bailiffs, and also to the fact that Thaw's counsel has applied to the court for permission to inspect the secret evidence, presented before the lunacy commission during the progress of the first trial.

As an added cause for delay there is a rumor that the attorneys now representing Thaw may apply for a change of venue, declaring a fair trial for their client in New York county is impossible. Such a move, if made, would be based upon the alleged unfriendly attitude of many of the local papers and the extent to which the evidence was printed and read in this county. District Attorney Jerome will seriously oppose the granting of a change in the scene of the trial.

Thaw Still Confident.

Thaw, in his cell in the famous old Tombs prison, which he has occupied since the night of the tragedy on Madison Square roof garden, June 25, 1906, is planning for his second trial with the same confidence of acquittal that he prepared for the first ordeal. He daily advises with his counsel, chafes at the delays already encountered in getting his story before a second jury, and is impatient for his days in court to begin.

It is nearly a year since the first trial was begun. It covered a period of twelve weeks, and after two days and two nights of deliberation, the jury could not agree. Seven of the 12 men who heard the dramatic recital of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw—a story of alleged wrongful treatment at the hands of the noted architect, a story that was flashed by telegraph and cable to every part of the civilized world and read as one of the most remarkable utterances ever heard in a court room—failed to believe that her confession to her husband justified him, three years later, in taking the life of the man charged with the ruin of his chorus girl wife. They voted for guilty of murder in the first degree. Five of the jurors, on the other hand, were ready to acquit, most of them believing that Thaw's mind had been so upset over the story of the girl's downfall that he was bereft of reason and was entitled to that provision of the law which excuses a person so insane as not to know the nature or quality of his act, and not to know that the act is wrong. At the police station the night of the tragedy, and afterward in the city prison, Harry Thaw contended he was acting as an agent of Providence in sending Stanford White to his grave.

Great Interest in Defense's Course.

Great interest centers in the course of the defense at the coming trial. It is generally believed that, despite any ideas of justification which Thaw may entertain, his present lawyers will confine themselves to making out a case of legal insanity. This may be "emotional," or hereditary, both of these phases of the matter having been gone into at the first trial. Six or seven alienists took the stand at that hearing and testified that Thaw had been driven insane by the story told him when he and the girl who was to become his wife, were stopping together in Paris. Dr. Britton D. Evans, superintendent of the New Jersey state hospital for the insane made a world-wide stir by expressing Thaw's condition of mind the night of the tragedy as a "brainstorm." The dark clouds had been gathering for a year or more, he declared, and when Thaw saw White "glowering" at him on the roof garden, at the first night of a summer extravaganza known as "Mlle. Champagne," the storm broke and Thaw fired.

District Attorney Jerome combated this plea with the testimony of seven experts, all of whom declared that Thaw's insanity was not such as to deprive him of knowledge as to the wrongful nature of his act. Notwithstanding this, however, they agreed with District Attorney Jerome that Thaw was medically insane, not only at the time of the shooting, but throughout the trial during which, they declared, he was unable intelligently to advise with counsel or to appreciate the character of the proceedings against him.

The trial was interrupted, it will be remembered, by the appointment of a commission, at Mr. Jerome's suggestion, to inquire into Thaw's mental condition. The commission agreed unanimously that Thaw was able to advise intelligently with counsel and to understand all of the proceedings in court. They examined the young millionaire both mentally and physically, and he came out of the tests with flying colors. This tended to beat out the theory of the defense that Thaw had suffered from a "brainstorm" and that his condition had wonderfully improved during his stay in jail. It was contended that with the death of White the forces which had fomented the disorder was removed and that the clouds of blind insanity had broken away.

When the trial was resumed, however, and the arguments were begun, Thaw's principal counsel, Delphin M. Delmas, who came with a brilliant reputation from the Pacific coast to take charge of the case, threw down the substantial structure of legal insanity which had been built up, tossed it literally out of the window, and made his plea unreservedly on the "unwritten law." He pictured with great oratorical effect "the wronged Evelyn" as "an angel child," Thaw alternately was a "Sir Galahad," or a "St. George" destroying the dragon. This line of argument gave District Attorney Jerome an unexpected opening, and he, too, disregarded the mass of testimony tending to show Thaw's mental irresponsibility, devoting himself to ridicule of the heroic roles in which Mr. Delmas had cast the defendant and his wife. Mr. Jerome declared the tragedy was nothing more than "a common, low, vulgar tenderloin murder." To the jury he described Thaw as a "wilful wretch," indulged from his youth by wealthy parents, and at last turned loose to "float his way through

$15,000,000,000

VALUE OF ANNUAL PRODUCTION OF MANUFACTURERS.

SHOWS ACTIVITY OF THE U. S.

Report Is Made by Chief of Bureau of Manufactures, After Careful Estimates by Experts—Parcels Post Needed in Exporting Goods.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Fifteen billion dollars represent the value of the annual production of manufactures in the United States. After careful estimates were made by experts, John D. Carson, chief of the bureau of manufactures, was able to make this statement in the annual report of the operation of his bureau, made public today. The figures do not represent finished products entirely, but include products in various stages of progress.

Last year the aggregate value of domestic merchandise exported was $1,853,000,000, an increase of nearly $136,000,000 over the preceding year. In this classification, "manufactures ready for consumption" are credited with $489,000,000, and the figures are generally accepted as the extent of the exports of manufactures. The report of the bureau, however, groups this classification with those of "foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured" and manufactures for further use in manufacturing, the aggregate exports of which last year were $606,000,000, and this amount added to "manufactures ready for consumption," make the aggregate value of manufactures exported in the year ended June 30, $1,056,000,000, or more than 58 per cent of the entire exports of the year.

Special significance is attached to the increase of nearly $20,000,000 in the exports of completed manufactures, in view of the decline in the exports of cotton cloths, this loss being entirely in the cotton trade with China. The popular feeling aroused in that country, growing out of alleged outrages against Chinese residents in the United States is assigned as a contributory cause for this decline.

The cottonseed products exports for the year were more than $40,000,000, an increase of $5,500,000 over 1906.

In commenting on these figures, the report says: "Aside from its intrinsic value, this relatively new industry has

SYMPATHY FOR MRS. BRADLEY

FINANCIAL AID OFFERED IN BATTLE FOR LIFE.

TRIAL ENTERS LAST WEEK

FINAL STAGES WILL BE BEGUN WHEN COURT OPENS TODAY.

EXPERTS WILL BE ON STAND

Alienists Will Testify for Both Sides in Now Famous Murder Case—Wrangle Is Expected. Several More Letters Will Be Read.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Whether the Bradley case can be concluded this week or not, it will enter upon its final stages almost immediately after the court convenes, tomorrow, and it is expressed that if the end is not obtained before Saturday night, there will be comparatively little to do the following week. All will depend upon the extent of the wrangle over the technicalities, in connection with the expert testimony as to Mrs. Bradley's mental condition when she shot Senator Brown, and the length of the arguments for and against her. The judge's instructions to the jury, the only other important feature to be taken into consideration, will not consume more than an hour at the outside.

There will probably be three speeches in Mrs. Bradley's behalf, one by Mr. Hoover and Mr. Wells in opening for her, and one by Judge Powers in closing. For the government, Mr. Turner will open and Mr. Baker close.

Mr. Hoover and Mrs. Wells do not count upon consuming more than two hours' time between them, but it is probable that Judge Powers will talk for an entire day, as he will desire to summarize the favorable testimony and explain away, as far as possible, points against his client. Mr. Baker will also speak at length. It is therefore, probable that the better part of three days will be consumed in the speechmaking.

Alienists Will Take Stand.

The alienists will take the stand very soon after the beginning of the court sitting tomorrow, but not until more of Senator Brown's letters to Mrs. Bradley shall have been read. There will be no effort to read all of them, but all that have been summarized in these dispatches will be available for the jury's consideration in case it should be found desirable to obtain more light on the subject of his attitude towards the woman. The letters, considerably more than a hundred in number, have all been identified, and they are therefore before the court even though they may not be read at length.

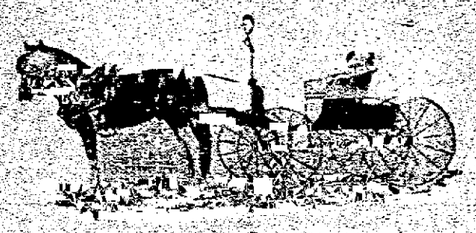

The professional men, who will be introduced to testify in Mrs. Bradley's behalf, are Dr. Britton D. Evans, medical director of the New Jersey state hospital for the insane, who was one of the chief experts called for the defense in the Thaw trial; Dr. Chas. D. Hill of Baltimore, medical officer of the Mount Hope Retreat, and St. Joseph's sanitarium of that city, and Dr. Wilfred M. Barton, president of gynecology at the Georgetown (D. C.) college and an expert in mental and nervous diseases. To these men Judge Powers will detail the story of Mrs. Bradley's life, and especially the part of it while she was associated with Senator Brown, and repeat in substance the greater part of the testimony dealing with his treatment of her and showing how she was affected by it, after which he will put the question to them as to whether they believe, in view of all these conditions the woman was sane when she struck down the man to whom she had been so deeply attached. They are expected to say "no", and in so answering, they will come into conflict with the alienists for the government, Dr. S. E. Jelliffe of New York, and Dr. Edward S. Brush of Baltimore. The two last named men

TRIP FOR TERRORS

CHRISTMAS JAUNT MAY BE MADE TO NORTHWEST.

CHICAGO TEAM REFUSES GAME

Manager Nye to Open Negotiations for Western Tour if Brown and White Eleven Wins Colorado Championship in Prep Game Thanksgiving.

If the Terrors win the state championship by beating the Boulder Preps in the Thanksgiving day game on Washburn field, an extensive Christmas trip is in prospect for them. Manager Nye has been negotiating for a trip for the last few weeks, but as yet has been able to make no definite arrangements.

An effort was first made to secure a trip to Chicago to play one of the crack high schools of that city for the championship of the west. An attempt was made to get a game with the Hyde Park high school, which this year has the strongest team in Illinois. Word has just been received from this team, however, that it is unable to undertake the financial responsibilities involved in bringing an out-of-town team to Chicago. Money conditions in the east are given as one of the reasons why a game could not be arranged.

Trip to Northwest.

A long trip to the Pacific coast and northwest is the latest plan, although it is still in the earliest stages, and is of such a nature that it may not be possible to make the necessary arrangements. Included in the trip would be games with Grand Junction, Salt Lake, Ogden, Seattle, Spokane and Butte high schools, all of which had teams that rank high in their respective sections of the country.

This trip, if taken, would be during the two weeks of the Christmas holidays. It would thus be necessary, not only to get the various teams to consent to the games, but to prolong their training seasons four weeks for the contests with the Terrors. The financial success of such a trip would be in itself an item of considerable importance, although the division of the expenses between several towns would lessen the risk. Last year, the Seattle high school brought the North Division high school team of Chicago half way across the continent for a game on New Years' day.

Will Begin Negotiations.

Principal Richards and Manager Nye have been figuring on the trip, and have decided to take up the proposition with the various schools along the proposed route. Of course, in a trip of two or three weeks' duration it would be impossible to play more than three or four games. If this number of schools can be interested, it is not improbable that the trip will be made, providing of course that the Terrors win the state championship, of which there seems to be every reasonable likelihood.

Another shorter trip that is in contemplation is one to Grand Junction next week, the game to be played with the high school team at that place on Friday, December 6. Negotiations with this school have been in progress for the last three weeks, but the western slope team has been unwilling to come to any suitable terms.

Terrors' Splendid Record.

A victory Thanksgiving day will give the Terrors the state championship for the third year in succession. It will also complete their third successive year without a defeat. The winning of the state honors again this year will give the Colorado Springs High School a record that will stand unequaled in the history of interscholastic football in Colorado. Without underestimating the prowess of the northern champions, Captain Morrison's eleven has an excellent chance of victory Thursday.

Seats for the game have already been placed on sale at Strang's and at the Colorado and Southern ticket office. A record-breaking crowd is expected as this is the only local game on the schedule Thursday, the Tigers playing in Salt Lake City. The advance grandstand seat sale is 15 cents, while the price will be raised to 25 cents on the day of the game.

A HORRIBLE ACCIDENT that may happen to one is no worse than a severe attack of rheumatism. If suffering with rheumatism no matter how slight or serious, you cannot find a better remedy than Ballard's Snow Liniment. Cures cuts, pains, bruises, rheumatism and neuralgia in a hurry. Try it. FINAL GAME IN UTAH

TIGERS HAVE CHANCE TO RETRIEVE MINES DEFEAT.

Team Says Farewell to Washburn Field Tonight—Thanksgiving Games Uncertain

After a light workout, the Tigers will bid good-by to Washburn field for the football season of 1907. They will leave, in a party numbering 19, tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock for Salt Lake City, where they play their final game of the year. They will be pitted on Thanksgiving day against Coach Maddock's Mormons, conquerors of the Miners and Denver, but defeated by the University of Colorado.

This game, because of the fact that it is to be played so far away, has not attracted the attention in state football circles that is due to its importance. The battle will have as decisive a bearing on the championship of the Rocky Mountain region as the Boulder-Miners game in Denver on the same day. In fact, the victors in the two games will stand tied for honors in the intermountain region.

Utah Strong at Home.

Were the game to be played on Washburn field, the Tigers would be the strong favorites, but there is no denying the fact that Utah has an advantage with the game in its own backyard. The Miners laid their defeat in Salt Lake City to the unfairness of the officials, but it is to be hoped that if the Tigers happen to be defeated they will come back with a better and worthier excuse. The University of Utah has a strong spirit, and the townspeople support the team strongly. It is this fact, coupled with the related fact that the opposing team is fighting its battle half a thousand miles from home, with no encouragement, that makes Utah a particularly hard team to defeat on its home grounds.

If Colorado College wins, and it stands a good chance if the men give the best they have, it will be doing more than the Miners were able to do, and will in a measure retrieve its defeat at the hands of the Golden team.

Tigers Are Crippled.

Since the Mines game, the team has had a comparatively light program. All of the men were more or less severely battered up, and the time has been spent in recovering. Scrimmages with the High School Terrors, however, have kept the team in good fighting trim. Among the cripples and semicripples are Captain Morris, Ruell Morgan, Sherry, C. Carey and Cort. All of these men will make the trip, and will be in shape to play.

The dope on the game is somewhat conflicting. Here are the scores:

Utah, 16; Mines, 10.
Mines, 15; Tigers, 0.
Tigers, 10; Boulder, 0.
Boulder, 24; Utah, 10.

From one angle, the Tigers should have an easy time disposing of the Mormons, while looking at the game from another point of view, the Mormons should walk all over the Tigers. Because of the uncertainty, the safest prediction is an even chance for both.

Game in Denver Uncertain.

Interest in Colorado will be centered in the Mines-Boulder game at Denver. A Mines victory will give it the undisputed championship of Colorado, while if the state university wins, a three-cornered tie between Boulder, Golden and Colorado Springs will result. On form, Ellsworth's team should win, but form has been upset so many times this season that it is a hard thing upon which to make an accurate prediction.

The university team has more than a fighting chance, and if its team of substitutes could put up a stubborn battle to turn the tide of battle and win from the Mormons, who had previously beaten the Miners, the eleven which Castleman and Folsom will send into the Thanksgiving game may again pull out a victory in the face of odds. Both teams, according to reports, will go into the game with several of their star men more or less out of condition.

For Cellar Championship.

On Thanksgiving morning, Denver and the Aggies will fight for the cellar championship. Neither team has won a game this season, and the pair appear evenly matched. The exhibition should be good, as Koehler and Rothgeb both know some good football, and have been teaching it to their proteges in preparation for the final game. It will be a hard fight, for neither is desirous of finishing the season without a victory to its credit.

In Colorado Springs, the High School season will come to a climax when the Terrors meet the Boulder Preps on Washburn field for the state championship. The local High School is playing a fast and snappy article of ball. Boulder is strong. The game promises to be one of the best exhibitions of football that has been seen on Washburn field this fall.

have been in attendance upon the trial ever since it began and have been listening to the testimony both for the purpose or forming an opinion on the case themselves and of advising the prosecuting attorney.

Will Combat Insanity Plea.

The district attorney will do all in his power to combat the plea of insanity. He and his assistants believe they have made out their case.

Several witnesses, such as Mr. Winger and Mr. Livingstone, will yet be introduced to contradict the testimony of Mrs. Bradley. The prosecution is also counting much upon the revelations that will be made in letters of Mrs. Bradley, which were found torn to pieces in her room after her arrest for shooting Senator Brown. They were rescued and pasted together and Mrs. Bradley identified them as hers while on the stand. The opposition is just as confident that they have shown a deranged mind and a provocation sufficient to justify the jury in agreeing with them.

Much sympathy is being expressed from all parts of the country for Mrs. Bradley and in some instances it has taken the shape of offers of financial assistance. Not only her attorney, but the mental experts are rendering service without charge.

"PAY AS YOU ENTER" SERVICE

Chicago Street Car Conductors Collect Fares as Passengers Enter.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The "pay as you enter" system of collecting street car fares was introduced successfully on the Cottage Grove avenue line of the Chicago City Railway company today. Officials of the company assert that 75 persons a minute were loaded during the rush hours following the morning church services and that safety was promoted and overcrowding and jostling reduced by the plan. Each car used in the experiment was fitted on the rear platform with a brass rail within a bend of which the conductor stood and collected the nickels of the passengers as they passed before him. Debarking passengers filed out behind the conductor. The plan has been in use in Montreal, it is said, but Chicago is the first American city to adopt it.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.— Philadelphians have had their first taste of winter when the coast storm brought it sleet and snow. Beyond some interference with telegraphic communication, the storm did little damage.

CONCESSIONS ARE FEW

UNITED KINGDOM GETS LITTLE FROM AMERICA.

Free Exchange of Drummers' Samples and Works of Art—Best That Could Be Done.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A pitifully small concession is that made to the United Kingdom by America in the new reciprocity arrangement, according to the admission of the officials themselves, but, after all, it is pointed out it was the best that could be done under the law. Details of the agreement between the American ambassador and the British foreign officers have not yet reached the state department, but the scope of the matter is fully understood here. As stated in the cable dispatches, the United Kingdom agrees to admit free samples of commercial travelers, and in return America agrees to admit, at reduced rates of duty, works of art originating in the United Kingdom.

The value of the concession made by America is measured in comparatively small figures. Last year the total value of dutiable works of art imported from Great Britain into the United States was $740,016.

The rate of duty was 20 per cent ad valorem and under the new arrangement it has been reduced to 15 per cent, which, in round figures, would amount to an abatement of duty to the amount of $37,000 per annum.

The British concession of free samples for commercial travelers is similar to that made to Belgium November 10, 1906, and requires the deposit of the amount of the duty or a bond for the same as a preliminary to the free admission of the samples and the duty or bond to be withdrawn at the pleasure of the traveler upon leaving the country. The samples are, it is stated to be used solely "for the purpose of obtaining orders and not for sale." Of course it is well known in most cases there is no duty imposed upon goods imported into Great Britain so the value of the new arrangement will be found in the privileges conferred upon agents for houses dealing in beer, tobacco, confectionery, preserves and all forms of sugared conserves.

Great Britain wished to obtain much more than the meager concession made in the arrangement just completed, but it was found that the President was strictly limited in his powers by the law to cases where "reciprocal and equivalent concessions are made in favor of the United States." Having given the United States free admission for all other forms of goods within its power, the British government had nothing to offer in this case but free drummers' samples. The British merchants wanted an abatement of the duty on spirits, which would have been of immense value to the Scotch whisky trade, but the President could not regard the abatement of the restrictions upon drummers' samples as at all equivalent.

FOUR GIRLS CAUSED MUTINY

Details of Recent Trouble at Vladivostok Secured From the Steamer Kumeric.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 24.—The steamer Kumeric brought a dispatch that the recent mutiny at Vladivostok was caused by four girls who went on board the destroyer Sukuri and instigated the bluejackets of the destroyer to seize the officers of the steamer and escape to Japan with the vessel.

They agreed, but decided to shell the city roadstead before leaving. A red flag was hoisted and the destroyer opened fire on the admiralty officer and the governor's residence and then exchanged shots with the cruiser Mandjur and the destroyers, as well as the forts.

The engineer of the destroyer was struck by a shell from the fort and the vessel was run ashore to prevent sinking. The four girls, who instigated the mutiny, were all killed, as well as a number of the bluejackets, the remainder being arrested.

The mutiny was followed by a most active campaign on the part of the authorities against the revolutionists and consternation prevailed. The British steamer Mary, which left Vladivostok on October 21 for Nagasaki, was thronged with refugees. The Vladivostok correspondent of the Osakaasi says the revolutionists, who are held under strict supervision, were using their wives to spread the revolutionary propaganda among the men of the army and navy. Outbreaks are expected.

"DRY" SUNDAY IN CHICAGO

Law and Order League Is Working to This End—Detectives Are Securing Evidence.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Some two hundred volunteer detectives, from the subsidiary organizations of the Chicago Law and Order league, visited saloons in Chicago today in an endeavor to obtain evidence that the Sunday closing law of Illinois was being violated.

The action is in furtherance of a campaign inaugurated by the league after the successful election struggles for local option waged in 17 counties of the state earlier in the month. The evidence collected today, it is announced, will be presented to the grand jury of Cook county tomorrow or Tuesday. Leaders in the movement for a "dry Sunday" in Chicago hope that the inquisitorial body will find the facts sufficient for the voting of true bills against numerous saloon keepers in each of the 35 wards of the city, under the state law which carried a maximum penalty of $200 fine and jail sentence for each proven violation. The city ordinances, on the contrary provide only nominal fines for such offenses.

The Chicago Law and Order league is composed of about one hundred district and church organizations having for their object strict observance of the statutes regulating the sale of liquor in the city, county and state. Mayor Busse has thus far refused to heed the pleadings of the organizations that the saloons be closed and in this attitude he has been upheld by the Saloon Keepers association, the Restaurant Keepers association and the United Societies for Safe Government. The latter body waged successful objection to the local option clause in the proposed city charter submitted to the voters at the last election and is credited with having been largely instrumental in the defeat of that measure. The United Societies draw their membership largely from the foreign-born elements of the city's population, being especially strong among the thousands of Germans and Scandinavians in Chicago.

CUBA'S POPULATION 2,000,000

Completion of Present Enumeration Begins New Era in Republic—First Home Rule Step.

HAVANA, Nov. 24.—With the completion of enumeration of the population of Cuba there has been accomplished the first step in the direction of termination of American intervention and the re-establishment of the Cuban republic.

Because of the difficult task of tabulating, the results probably will not be known for some weeks. An estimate by one of the most accomplished statisticians in the service of the provisional government places the population of the island at 2,000,000, of which about 400,000 are foreigners not entitled to the franchise.

An element that may prove to be of prime importance in the coming election is the illness of Josef Miguel Gomez. It is rumored that the general is afflicted with a dangerous ailment which may compel his retirement from the field, in which event a reconciliation of the Miguelista and Zayasista factions is not improbable. A singular feature of the present situation is the utter apathy with which the Cubans appear to regard the preparation making for the restoration of their republic. At no time since the intervention began has political discussion been so languid.

HORNE'S VICTIMS STILL LIVE

No Charge Has Yet Been Filed Against Kansas City Editor who Shot Two of His Fellows.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 24.—No charge has yet been preferred against General R. C. Horne, the stockholder and editorial writer of the Kansas City Post, who yesterday shot and wounded O. D. Woodward, president of the Post company, and N. J. Groves, managing editor of the paper. General Horne is being held at the police matron's office at the city hall, awaiting the outcome of the injuries suffered by his victims.

Both patients are resting well tonight. The bullet which struck Groves has not been removed nor has it been definitely located, although it is believed to be in the muscles of the back. Unless unfavorable symptoms develop, no efforts will be made to remove the bullet for several days.

The bone in Woodward's arm was shattered and the necessity of amputation may develop. Tonight his physician stated that it is too early to determine whether the member can be saved.

SILVER OUT OF THE PROBLEM

The Coinage Has no Bearing on Monetary Conditions Which Exist Today, Says Bryan.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24.—William J. Bryan lectured at Ford's opera house this afternoon, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., prior to which he was given a luncheon by friends and admirers. Just before the latter event, in response to a question as to whether coinage of silver as advocated by him would have prevented the money stringency from which the country has been suffering, he said:

"The coinage of silver has no bearing upon the monetary conditions which exist today. The restoration of bimetallism would have given us more money than we have at present, but the unprecedented discovery of gold has given us such an increase in the volume of money that prices have risen."

What the Press Agents Say

"LOST IN NEW YORK" AT THE OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

"Lost in New York" the big melodrama will be the attraction at the Opera House this evening, at popular prices, 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.00.

There never has been, nor there never will be a play touching on the daily life in New York city that will equal the success of that old reliable comedy-drama "Lost in New York." This famous play has toured the country for something like a "dozen-and-a-half" of years and each succeeding year it returns to even bigger and better business.

However, the secret of its success lies in the fact that Manager L. Newt Brenson keeps it abreast with the times, and every season adds new "up-to-date" features, but which do not in the least mar or interfere with the good old story as has been told over and over again. usurper. It leads up to a scene in which is portrayed one of the most remarkable heart-rending duels of emotion ever seen on the stage. It is a situation that demands deft, fine, and restrained acting, cold hatred, and passionate rigidity, and which electrifies the audience by a subsequent moment of contrition. In this wonderful emotional scene, Miss Roberts is said to be at her best. She has been surrounded by a strong supporting company, and the piece has been handsomely and adequately mounted.

"IN OLD KENTUCKY."

Of the many plays that come and go, scarcely ever is found one with the record for continuous success, season after season, that has been attained by that wholesome blue-grass drama "In Old Kentucky," to be seen at the Opera House next Monday. The various situations are thrilling in the extreme, the dialogue racy of the Daniel Boone state, the villainy of the sort that is watched with bated breath and the love making delicious. It is a clean, sweet play from beginning to end, and its grasp upon the affections of American playgoers is nothing short of marvelous. It is now in its fifteenth year and the end is not yet. There is plenty of room for more plays of "In Old Kentucky's" type on the boards, but the playwrights seem unable to turn them out. For the present season of 1907-08, "In Old Kentucky" is sent out with a brand new scenic equipment and one of the strongest casts that has ever secured for the play. The pickaninnies will be with the organization as usual.

FLORENCE ROBERTS

The Famous Actress, Who Will Apppear at the Opera House Next Thursday, Matinee and Night, In "Zira."

Mr. Brenson is sending us a strong company this year, well balanced in every way, and a production that is fresh from the scenic artist's brushes.

FLORENCE ROBERTS IN "ZIRA."

The Thanksgiving attraction at the Opera House next Thursday will be Florence Roberts in the great play "Zira," matinee and night.

Among the strong dramatic productions of recent years, none has excited greater public approval than "Zira," the modern adaptation of Wilkie Collins' famous novel, "The New Magdalen," by Henry Miller and J. Hartley Manners. This play is to be presented with the favorite emotional actress, Florence Roberts, in the stellar role of Hester Trent. In it Mrs. Roberts is said to have a wonderful scope for her unusual and remarkable abilities as an emotional actress.

The play deals with the efforts of a young woman to regain her place in the world, which she has lost through being tricked into a false marriage by a scoundrel already married. To regain her lost position she steps into the place and adopts the name of a woman supposed to be dead.

The crisis comes when this woman returns and claims her own from the

OLIVE MEAD STRING QUARTET.

Tonight at 8:15, at Perkins hall, the Olive Mead String Quartet will give a concert under the auspices of the Colorado Springs Musical club. The admission will be $1.

New York Sun: The players are Olive Mead, first violin; Elizabeth Houghton, second; Gladys North, viola, and Lillian Littlehales, cello, and their playing puts to blush most of the male quartets. Their numbers last night were Haydn's G Minor quartet; Dvorak's terzetto for two violins and viola, opus 74, and Schubert's D minor quartet. Their performance was characterized by exquisite intonations and refinement of style. The Haydn quartet could not have been played better by any other organization known to this public.

New York Times: They have already set a standard that none of their masculine competitors in the domain of chamber music are in the habit of reaching, and the seriousness with which they approach their task, the hard work they have devoted to it and the uncommon skill, intelligence and musical feeling with which they approach it, were delightfully in evidence last evening.

the tenderloin on $80,000 a year." The seemingly irrational writings of Thaw, which were placed in evidence, were dismissed by Jerome as the work of a "rich illiterate, and nothing more.

Thaw Has Changed Attorneys.

District Attorney Jerome and Francis D. P. Garvan, his first assistant, again will have charge of the prosecution, but Thaw has made an important change of attorneys. Replacing Mr. Delmas as chief counsel will be Martin W. Littleton of Brooklyn. Mr. Littleton is known as a capable lawyer and a brilliant orator. At the Democratic national convention of 1904 it was he who nominated Alton B. Parker for the presidency. Mr. Littleton is a southern man, having been born in Tennessee just 35 years ago. He is what is generally termed a self-made man, having educated himself. He began the practice of law in 1891, and, moving to Dallas, Texas, served there for a term as assistant prosecuting attorney. Later he removed to Brooklyn and at once became a prominent figure in politics and at the bar. For four years he was assistant district attorney of Kings county and under the first McClellan administration in Greater New York was president of Brooklyn borough. Just who will be associated with Mr. Littleton may not be definitely known until the day the trial begins. At present Daniel O'Reilly and A. Russell Peabody are the only members of the former array of counsel credited with being in Thaw's service. Because of Thaw's impetuosity it was not always known during the former trial just who his attorneys might be the next day. The opening day of the coming trial undoubtedly will settle whatever misunderstanding may exist among counsel. It is the hope of the prisoner's friends that his cause may not be hampered this time by the wrangles among counsel which were frequent last winter.

Evelyn May Not Testify.

There is much speculation as to whether or not Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the school girl-like figure about which the storm and tempest of the first trial beat out its fury, will again take the stand in her husband's defense. A report has been current for some time that she will not, but the Thaw case always has been surrounded by every class of rumor and suggestion that human ingenuity can invent. A definite decision as to the matter of placing the girl again upon the stand may not be arrived at until the trial is well under way. Without her testimony there would be difficulty in making out a case of emotional insanity—a defense which would have to be relied upon to gain Thaw's absolute freedom. If medical or hereditary insanity be the plan of the defense, the best Thaw can hope for is an indefinite commitment to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan.

Neither Thaw nor his wife relish the idea of placing the girl at the mercy of another cross-examination by Mr. Jerome, who, unmoved by her tears or her burning cheeks of shame, forced her to admit the long continued relations which existed between her and Stanford White, and to tell the jury in plain words of the two European tours she made with Thaw before becoming his wife. It was on one of these tours, the girl declared, that Thaw demanded to know of her the reason why she would not consent to become his wife. Then she told him her life history, and of the alleged wrong which was claimed to have ruined her career. Told for a second time the story might lose much of the dramatic effect of its first offering, and it is not generally believed that young Mrs. Thaw, in the knowledge of the cross-examination that would come, could hold herself together as well as she did at the first trial, when Mr. Jerome freely proclaimed her as one of the best witnesses he had ever heard anywhere.

The second trial may not last more than a few weeks. Its length will depend almost entirely upon the time required in securing a jury. This is expected to be tedious work, if the trial is held in New York county, as there are few persons within its borders who did not read the details of the former trial and who have not some prejudice or bias in the question of Thaw's guilt. Once the jury box is filled, however, the attorneys expect to move forward rapidly, and with few interruptions.

Both plans require a certain percentage of bonds to be held by a national bank in order to obtain the additional circulation, the object of this provision being to prevent any decline in the market value of bonds by the development of a preference for the new form of circulation. Practically all the bonds, now pledged by the banks to secure circulation, would be taken care of under either of these plans.

Possible Complications.

The plan of further issues upon new types of bonds, which are not now acceptable under the law, finds support among those who believe that banknotes should not be issued except upon specific securities, which is out of the custody of the bank. The usual measure of this kind provides for additional issues upon state and municipal bonds acceptable to the secretary of the treasury and in some cases upon railroad bonds, which comply with the provisions of the New York and Massachusetts laws for saving bank investments. While the advocates of this plan regard it as affording more complete security than the chamber of commerce or the banker plan, it is declared by its critics that a single blunder by the smallest bank in the country which happened to escape the scrutiny of the secretary of the treasury by which a poor class of bonds was deposited and the bank failed with limited assets would cast discredit upon the entire system. It would then become necessary as in the days before the Civil war, to examine every banknote received in order to make sure that it did not come from a bank which had failed, with securities for its notes. This difficulty would be obviated by the creation of a guarantee fund, as under the plans of the chamber of commerce and the bankers association, but supporters of the latter plans declare that it would be a superlative supporters of the latter plans declare that it would be a superlative provision to adopt both forms of securities and that the guaranty fund affords the most complete protection against scattered losses. One of the questions which is likely to arouse serious discussion is whether a cash reserve shall be required against such notes. A reserve of the same amount as that required against deposits, is provided by the bankers' plan and is considered important by its supporters in order to keep the issues of notes linked to the gold, and prevent indefinite expansion and excessive gold exports.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—No response was forthcoming today either at the White House or at the treasury department as to the statement given out in New York yesterday by Representative Fowler of Connecticut chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, commenting adversely on the flotation of Panama canal bonds and treasury certificates. The attention of the secretary of treasury was brought to Chairman Fowler's statement, but it only elicited the reply that he had nothing to communicate in regard to it.

PROHIBITIONISTS ACTIVE

Hope to Make a "Dry" Town of New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24.—With "a dry" New Orleans as the aim of the prohibitionists, and a "reformed" New Orleans as the object of saloon keepers, a crusade, reflecting the prohibition movement in other parts of the south began here today. Ministers in nearly all local churches devoted part of their sermons to appeals for prohibition of the liquor trade. The announced plan of the influential dealers is first to force the resignation from the Louisiana Liquor league of objectionable members, and second, to petition the city council to close up the saloons of such retired members. The closing of dives, especially of negro resorts, is one of the objects of the liquor dealers. Another is to create such surroundings where drinks are sold as will minimize drunkenness and violence.

an economic value and importance to the country, the beneficial results of which are especially felt in the southern states in which cotton is indigenous and in which the cottonseed industry is naturally located."

The success attending investigation by experts sent abroad has led to the adoption of the policy of specializing investigation of trade conditions in foreign markets. One of the obstacles to the enlargement of export trade is the uncertainty of transit between places of production and the seaboard. Merchants in the orient, especially, complain that calculation cannot be made as to when goods ordered in the United States will be delivered, and in consequence, orders go to European houses that should come to those of this country.

Demands made by business men of the extension of parcels post to foreign countries is discussed. It is claimed that this extension would open markets now closed to American business men for lack of transportation facilities, but which are open to their competitors who have the advantage of parcels post.

through its loan committee, which is involved by the issuance of clearing house certificates, has brought the loan accounts of the banks under a scrutiny free from all collateral influence and impartial interest requirements.

Forced Liquidation.

The result has been an exercise of discrimination against some existing accounts, which exacted their liquidation on forced terms. Maturity of time loans, on which renewals were refused, was another factor in the urgent selling which appeared in individual securities, both in stocks and bonds. These clearing up processes were an inevitable after-effect of the turbulent events which had preceded it and such operations are to be interpreted in the light of those past events rather than as a reflection of current general conditions. The liquidation has been painful by reason of the inadequate demand to absorb it, new buying being restricted from the same causes that necessitated the liquidation, the principal being the continued stringency of the money market.

While the process was a painful one, it was effective, nevertheless, in correcting the position. The buying in small lots for investment continued a marked feature of the market and while not sufficient to stay the downward course of prices, was a factor in bringing funds back into the channels of banking operations.

Much Gold Leaving Germany.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—Gold continues to leave Germany in a steady stream, the Reichsbank having lost probably $3,000,000 during the past week, but the stock has been more than replenished through arrivals from home sources. The Reichsbank is trying to increase its gold supply by paying out bank notes of small denomination, which recently became available for circulation.

The impression here is that most of the gold taken for the United States during the week was drawn from the open market. The tendency shown in Wall Street, the past week, has had a calming tendency upon the minds of the financial community and the hope is now entertained that a gradual recovery will now set in in the United States.

A BAD LAW.

IF the Sherman Anti-Trust law has any friends, they are not speaking up to any extent. It seems to be generally agreed that the law is wrong in principle and pernicious in practice. Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce Commission has denounced it in terms that are positively bitter. It interferes with the work of his commission. It undertakes to make crimes of all combinations whatever, regardless of their effect; and since it is a law, the commission presumably feels compelled to try to enforce it.

Senator Foraker proposed at the last session a modification and condensation of this and the Elkins and Interstate commerce laws, but he was not able to secure consideration for his measure. It will be difficult even in the coming long session to frame a comprehensive act which shall take the place of all three, and be reasonably satisfactory to everybody. The simplest course would be just to repeal the Sherman law, and leave the others until some well-devised plan for consolidating them shall have been thought out and accepted by the majority.

Combinations and agreements in business there must be. Even the President has often acknowledged this. It is useless, when it is not destructive, to make laws that are dead against the whole course of trade, and that interfere with the natural development of traffic. This law was a mistake from the beginning. To perpetuate it is a still greater mistake; but so great is the inertia of a bicameral legislative body that it is not at all sure that a repeal can be secured at the coming session. But that does not alter the fact that the law ought to be repealed.

WHY TO CHURCH?

PRESS comment had about died out as to the plain young woman who went to church for the Ladies' Home Journal and was not as cordially welcomed as she thought she ought to be; but a writer in the Newark Monitor (Roman Catholic) has given a new fillip to the discussion by asserting that the whole incident proves that Protestants go to church as they would to a social club, to be entertained and to visit with each other, while Roman Catholics go to church to worship God, and don't expect that it will be a place for the display of social amenities. Those who care to follow his argument will find it in last week's Literary Digest, and it is interesting reading.

We don't suppose that most Protestants will be willing to own that their primary object in going to church is to be entertained. They will say that their primary object, like the Catholic's, is to worship; but they believe it is good also to greet one's friends and give a welcome to strangers; and they will insist that the social activities of a church exert an excellent influence, especially over its young people. It would be a profitless controversy to argue the respective merits of Roman Catholic and Protestant churches as to this matter; but it may not be profitless for people to stop and think for a moment what they really do go to church for. Many of them don't really know, because they never have stopped to think. If upon self-examination they find that their primary purpose is not worship; if after church is out they find themselves criticising the sermon and the music, and talking about who were there and what they wore, there may be some reason to suspect that in their case the criticism of the Catholic writer is not unfounded.

The trial of "Steve" Adams at Rathdrum has not attracted a tithe of the public notice that the Haywood trial did. That was natural enough, for the Adams trial is for murdering a man who was not known outside of his immediate neighborhood, and it is not alleged that it was committed as a part of the program of the Western Federation of Miners. Still, Adams was mixed up with the Federation, and the disposition of his case may have some effect on public opinion so as to affect indirectly the trial of Pettibone, which is scheduled to begin as soon as the Adams case is finished. Probably the Pettibone trial will not attract the notice that the Haywood trial did, but it will go largely over the same ground and involve the same question of the participation of the Federation in the outrages which Orchard confessed to having committed.

It is not refreshing, but rather the contrary, to think that one of the first things that will come up at the new session of Congress will be that everlasting Brownsville incident. We are told that the committee of investigation which has been sitting during the recess is divided, and that the majority will report that the "shooting up" of the town was done by negro soldiers, while the minority will report that it was not. Then Mr. Foraker may be depended on to make the most of it, and to delay final action as long as possible. He may be able to make it last all winter.

The Denver mint has started in to coin silver halves and quarters to the limit of its capacity. It has been turning out gold pieces as fast as it could for several weeks, but the demand for small change made it advisable to turn its energies to silver. Wonder what those Congressmen think now who maintained while the matter of establishing the mint was before Congress that there was no need for it. It has been running up to its capacity for a long time in fact, it has proved the right thing in the right place.

Mr. "Fingy" Conners, committeeman from New York, has been talking foolishly—just like Roger Sullivan, or more so. He says the Democratic party is through with Bryan, and that Chanler will beat Roosevelt 100,000 votes in New York state. But that was before Mr. Conners went to French Lick. Maybe he has seen a great light by this time, and will be in line for "The Commoner" along with Tom Taggart before long. One thing is sure that Mr. Bryan hasn't got through with the Democratic party.

A good deal of complaint has lately been made of Dr. Wiley, the officer in charge of the enforcement of the Pure Food law of the United States. It is said that he is interfering unwarrantably in private business. He replies that he is after "hayseed jam and glucose honey," and proposes to keep after them and similar abominations till they are suppressed. By the way, the state Pure Food law goes into effect the first of next year, and extensive preparations are under way to make it as effective as may be.

The woman suffragists of Great Britain seem to be made of the same sort of stuff as the woman prohibitionists of Alabama. How they will advance their cause by stopping a speaker—as they did Mr. Herbert Gladstone the other evening, and precipitating a free fight afterward, it is not easy to see.

Now that an Austrian chemist has found a method of producing radium at one-third the former cost, it will come to only a million dollars an ounce, instead of three million, and everybody can have some.

"JETTATURA."

From the New York Globe.

Popular Italian belief in "jettatura," or the "evil eye," will be greatly strengthened by the death of Signor Gianturco, minister of public works, just reported. For Signor Giolotti, the premier, is accredited with the possession of an eye that brings misfortune upon those who fall within its range. This "evil eye" is sometimes a mere twist of the optic muscles, sometimes a peculiarity of coloring, sometimes a sinister squint. There is no precise definition of its qualities. It simply is recognized by the astute as "jettatura," and no reasoning will shake the belief in its malevolence. An Italian will hasten around a corner out of his course to avoid meeting a person with an "evil eye." Tourists with optical defects have often found travel through Italy a matter of serious embarassment, if not of actual difficulty, because of this superstition. In Signor Giolotti's case there is an excuse for the belief in a chain of circumstantial happenings. The late minister of public works was the fifth member of the Giolotti cabinet to die while in office. Yet there appears to have been no special difficulty in finding successors. Possibly the more intelligent Italians do not subscribe to the belief that the premier is a man whose glances are to be shunned. At all events whatever the truth about Signor Giolotti's eyes, the death of five of his colleagues in rapid succession is calculated to give him an unfortunate prominence in the gossip of the peasantry.

YOUNG MEN ENLISTING IN THE NAVY.

From the Baltimore Sun.

That the spirit of adventure still animates young Americans is proved by the rush to enlist in the navy for the long cruise to the Pacific. A voyage of thousands of miles, across the equator and through the straits of Magellan into the South Pacific, appeals powerfully to the imagination of young men. The sailors will not only have this long sea voyage, but will have the opportunity to visit the principal cities of both coasts of South America, and possibly some in the far east. The conditions under which this long voyage will be made by the bluejackets are not unattractive. The discipline is strict, of course, and there are duties to be performed day by day. But these duties are not unpleasant: the treatment of the enlisted men is fair and considerate, and the food is good. The enforced regularity of living, the daily drills and the fine air of the ocean cannot fail to improve the physical condition of the men on the fleet, and it is an advantage to young men to see something of the world beyond their own immediate homes. It is gratifying that these things are being understood and that enlistments in the navy are rapidly filling all requirements. And there can be no doubt that young men who have the spirit of adventure and are attracted to the navy by prospects of the voyage to the Pacific are the best possible material out of which to make good sailors and gunners.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE LIMITED.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

This week a Central American peace conference will be called to order in Washington. Though it will be held in the interest of the five countries of Central America, and for the purpose of promoting sensible and friendly relations among them, the United States and Mexico will be represented for certain purposes by accredited delegates at the meeting. In fact, the governments of these two countries have arranged the conference, and all their moral and diplomatic influence will be used to render it as fruitful as the circumstances permit.

The need of a Central American peace conference hardly needs emphasizing. Very recent troubles of the "traditional sort," troubles as peculiar and unintelligible to outsiders as they seemed acute to the participants, have made even hopeful observers distinctly skeptical regarding the much-talked-of "improvements" in the internal and foreign politics of our small but strenuous neighboring republics. Yet these absurd and strange Central American conflicts cannot go on forever. They cause agricultural and commercial stagnation; they destroy credit; they produce the impression that the countries involved in them are still in a barbarous state. Surely the time for a real change, for a reasonable adjustment of differences, and for treaties of mediation and arbitration that "mean something" should have arrived.

It is because the American and Mexican governments believe that confidence and understanding in Central America are not impossible that the present conference has been brought about. Everything that breeds jealousy and suspicion will be put aside, and a resolute effort will be made to lay the foundation of a fairly stable peace, perhaps with a view to ultimate federal union.

The delegates that will confer at Washington are men of ability, diplomatic and legal training and sincere devotion to progress. The rub will come in subsequent attempts to secure the honest cooperation of ambitious politicians and restless "warriors." It is precisely at that stage that the guidance of the next friends of Central America should prove valuable.

"POETRY LOOKING UP."

From the New York Tribune.

There never was a time for poetry like the present. The old saying that it does not pay is no longer true. It is as profitable as buying mining stock at 1 cent a share and selling it for $10, and easier, oh, much easier! If the economic law that there is always a supply where there is a demand applies in art, and many ingenious theories have been constructed on that premise, then we ought soon to be in for the greatest age of song since "those melodious bursts that fill the spacious times of great Elizabeth." The reason why they had so much poetry in those spacious times was that it paid, that is, paid comparatively, for nothing was so profitable then as it is now, and a man in those days might just as well turn his hand to making verses as to slitting Spanish throats. The profits were about equal, and some versatile persons did both, but the milder natures and those inclined to seasickness generally stayed at home and wrote poetry. In recent years it has been different, and when a young man wanted to write poetry and the family physician found he could do nothing for him with the latest coal tar drugs, his father and mother went down on their knees and begged him to be a corporation lawyer or to tend a bar—at any rate to do something which gave promise of enabling him to support a wife and children.

All that is changed. Since Homer smote his blooming lyre" there has not been such a good time for poets as now, and the best of it is that the boom is increasing. Why, in England, where the art is much more prosperous than here, the latest advertisement of a tobacco firm for a missing line in a "limerick contest" characterizes a £50 reward as "paltry." The inducements in this instance are described as "a freehold furnished country house, with pony and trap, stabling, bath, electric light, and £2 per week pension for life." An estate and an annuity of £104 ($520) to keep it up—we believe that it, as we might say, the record price a line for poetry. A young man thinking of being a barrister or a banker may well hesitate and go into the better paying vocation of a poet. Watering stock is hardly more remunerative than writing verse, and as for those pampered persons who write the "six best sellers," they will be sorry they "feared their necks to venture such a nag on" as Pegasus and trained themselves to ride that humble Dobbin, prose.

In this country no such opportunities are yet open for the poet, but there are not wanting signs that his vocation is becoming more remunerative. Art here ever lags behind art in Europe, but this reproach we firmly believe will not long be true. The genius of the American people is such that we feel sure the first great money kings of verse will be produced on this side of the water.

"MODEL TENEMENTS" THAT ARE PRACTICAL.

From the New York American.

The "model tenement," concerning which much has been said and little done, is being made a practical success in Paris. One company there has been so fortunate in its first venture that it is now opening a second house, and shows every disposition of extending the system. The plan is for two, three, and four-room flats at a rental of from $32 to $84 per year. No family is admitted that has not more than three or more children. Sanitary arrangements have been so perfected that the mortality rate has been reduced from 24 to nine out of every 1,000, a decrease of over 60 per cent in the death rate.

The houses, each of which is built to accommodate from 400 to 600 persons, are designed especially for children. Play rooms and open spaces are provided, windows and stairways are so guarded that accidental death or injury from these sources is made practically impossible, and other up-to-date contrivances have been adopted for the safety, health and amusement of the little ones. The walls and floors have no breeding places for the ubiquitous microbe, cleanliness is insisted upon, while medical inspection is so rigorous as to prevent the introduction or spread of contagion.

The system has proved a commercial success, for which reason it is certain to be extended. The Paris plan should furnish valuable suggestions for the solution of the tenement problem in New York.

PART III.

CHAPTER IX.

THE ACHIEVEMENT.

For some moments Darrow sat gazing at the table before him. His cigarette lip glowed and failed. Someone sugested drinks. The captain asked Darrow what he would have, but the question went unnoted.

"How I passed the next six months I could hardly tell you," he began again, quite abruptly. "At times I was bored—fearfully bored. Yet the element of mystery, of uncertainty, of underlying peril, gave a certain zest to the affair. In the periods of dullness I found some amusement in visiting the lower camp and baiting the Nigger. Slade will have told you about him; he possessed quite a fund of Voodooism; he possessed more before I got through with him.

"Yes; if he had lived to return to his country, I fancy he would have added considerably to Afro-American witch lore.

"You remember the vampire bats, Slade? And the devil-fires? Naturally I didn't mention to you that the devil-fire business wasn't altogether as clear to me as I pretended. It wasn't, though. But at the time it served very well as an amusement. All the while I realized that my self-entertainment was not without its element of danger, too; I remember glances not altogether friendly, but always a little doubtful, a little awed. Even Handy Solomon, practical as he was, had a scruple or two of superstition in his makeup, on which one might work. Only Eagen—Slade, I mean—was beyond me there. You puzzled me not a little in those days, Slade. Well * * *

"Did I say that I was sometimes annoyed by the doctor's attitude? Yes; it seemed that he might have given me a little more of his confidence; but one can't judge such a man as he was. Among the ordinary affairs of life he had relied on me for every detail. Now he was independent of me. Independent! I doubt if he remembered my existence at times. Even in his blackest moods of depression he was sufficient unto himself. It was strange. * * * How he did rage the day the chemicals from Washington went wrong! I was washing my shirt in the hot water spring when he came bolting out of the laboratory and keeled me over. I came out pretty indignant.

"Apologize? Not at all. He just sputtered. His nearest approach to coherence seemed to indicate a desire that I should go back to Washington at once and destroy a perfectly reputable firm of chemists. Finally, he calmed down and took it out in entering it in his daily record. He was quite proud of that daily record and remembered to write in it on an average of once a week.

"Then the chest went wrong. Whether it had rusted a bit, or whether the chemicals had got in their work on the hinges, I don't know; but one day the professor, of his own initiative, recognized my existence by lugging his box out in the open and asking me to fix it. Previously he had emptied it.

"It was rather a complicated thing, with an inner compartment over which was a hollow cover, opening along one rim. That, I conjectured, was designed to hold some chemical compound or salt. There were many minor openings, too, each guarded by a similar hollow door. My business was with the heavy top cover.

"'It should shut and open softly, gently,' explained the professor. 'So. Not with-a-grating-sound-to-be-accompanied,' he added, with his curious effect of linked phraseology.

"Half a day's work fixed it. The lid would stand open of itself until tipped at a considerable angle, when it would fall and lock. Only on the outer shell was there a lock; that one was a good bit of craftsmanship.

"'So, Percy, my boy,' said the doctor, kindly. 'That will with sufficient safety guard our treasure. When we obtain it, Percy. When it entirely finished and completed shall be.'

"'And when will that be?' I asked.

"'God knows,' he said, cheerfully. 'It progresses.'

"Whenever I went strolling at night he would produce his curious lights. Sometimes they were fairly startling. One fact I made out by accident, looking down from a high place. They did not project from the laboratory. He always worked in the open when the light was to be produced. Once the experiment took a serious turn. The lights had flickered, and gone. Dr. Schernerhorn had returned to his laboratory. I came up the arroyo as he flung the door open and rushed out.

"He was a grotesque figure, clad in an undershirt and a worn pair of trousers, fastened with an old bit of tarred rope in lieu of his suspenders, which I had been repairing. About his waist flickered a sort of aura of radiance which was extinguished as he flung himself headforemost into the cold spring. I hauled him out. He seemed dazed. To my questions he replied only in mumblings, the burden of which was:

"'I do not understand. It is a not-to-be-comprehended accident.' It appears that he didn't quite know why he had taken to the water. Or if he did, he didn't want to tell.

"Next day he was as good as new. Just as silent as before, but it was a smiling, satisfied silence. So it went for weeks, for months, with the accesses of depression and anger always rare. Then came an afternoon when, returning from a stalk after sheep, I heard strange and shocking noises from the laboratory. Strict as was the embargo which kept me outside the door, I burst in, only to be seized in a suffocating grip. Of a sudden I realized that I was being embraced. The doctor flourished a hand above my head and jigged with ponderous steps. The dismal noises continued to emanate from his mouth. He was singing. I wish I could give you a notion of the amazement, the paralyzing wonder with which * * * No, you did not know Dr. Schernerhorn; you would not understand.

"We polkaed into the open. There he cast me loose. He stopped singing and burst into a rhapsody of disjointed words. Mostly German, it was—a wondrous jumble of the scientific and poetic. 'Eureka' occurred at intervals. Then he would leap in the air. It was weird, it was distressing. Crazy? Oh, quite. For the time, you understand. If any of us should suddenly become the most potent individual in the world, wouldn't he be apt to lose balance temporarily? One must make allowances. There was excuse for the doctor. He had reached the goal.

"'Percy, you shall be rewarded,' he said. 'You haf like-a-trump-card stuck by me. You shall haf riches, gold what you will. You are young, yound blood runs red, with such riches nothing is beyond you. You could the ancient-tombs-of-Egypt explore. It is open to you such collections-as-have-never-been gathered to make. What shall is be? Scarabs? Missals? Prehistoric implements? Amuse yourself, mein kind. You shall be able the-bills-with-usurious-interest to pay. What will you haf.

"I said I'd like a vacation, if convenient.

"'Presently,' he replied, 'There yet remains the guardianship to be perfected. Then to-a-world-astonished-and-respectful we return. Tonight we celebrate. I play you a rubber of pinochle.'

"We played. With the greatest secret of science resting at our elbows, we played. The doctor won; my mind was not exactly on the game. In the morning the doctor sang one more. I shall never hear its like again. Was it a week, or a month, after that? I cannot remember. I fancy I was excited. Then, too, there was something in the atmosphere about the laboratory. I don't know; imagination, possibly. Once we had a little manifestation; the night that the Nigger and Slade were terrified by the rock fires. Days of excitement and pleasant work, with the little volcano grumbling more all the time. I have spent worse days.

"Such indifference as the doctor displayed toward the volcano I have never known. If I ventured to warn him he would assure me that there was no cause for alarm. I think he regarded that little hell's kitchen as merely a feed-spout for his vast enterprise. He felt a sort of affection toward it; he was tolerant of its petty fits of temper. That he completed his work before the destruction came was sheer luck. Nothing else. The day before the outburst he came to me with a tiny phial of complicated design.

"'Percy, I will at-a-reasonable-price sell this to you,' he said.

"'How much?' I inquired, responding to his playfulness.

"'A bargain,' he cried gaily. 'Five million dollars. No! Shall I upon-a-needy-friend hard-press? Never. One million. One little million dollars.'

"'I haven't that amount with me,' I began.

"'Of no account,' he declared airily. Soon we shall haf many more times as that. Gif me your C. O. D.'

"'My I. O. U.?' I inquired.

"'It makes no matter. See. I will gif it to you gratis.'

"He handed me the metal contrivance. It was closed.

"'Inside iss a little, such a very little. Not yet iss it arranged the motive-power to give forth. One more change-to-be-made that shall require. But the other phenomena are all in this little half-grain comprised. Later I shall tell you more. Take it. It iss without price.' He laid his hand on my shoulder. 'Like the love of friends,' he said gently."

Feeling in his upper waistcoat pocket, Darrow brought out a phial, so tiny that it rolled in the palm of his hand. He contemplated it, lost in thought.

"Radium?" queried Barnett, with the keen interest of the scientist.

"God knows what it is," said Darrow, rousing himself. "Not the perfected product, the doctor said that when he gave it to me. If I could remember one-tenth of what he told me that night! It is like a disordered

ELKS REMEMBER POOR

WILL DISTRIBUTE MANY DINNERS THANKSGIVING DAY.

Plans for Elaborate Christmas Entertainment for Children Are Also Maturing.

More than 125 Thanksgiving dinners will be distributed by the Elks of this city. This is in keeping with the annual custom of No. 309. Working through members of the lodge, letter carriers and policemen, the committee has quietly secured a list of families in the city who will be without the Thanksgiving dinner.

Accordingly, about 125 turkeys, with all the trimmings, such as celery, cranberries, potatoes and pumpkin pie, have been ordered. From the club house on Wednesday afternoon, five automobiles will distribute the Thanksgiving day dinners. The members of the committee who have had charge of the work are: James P. Bussey, W. H. McIntyre, Robert A. Miller, John Hill, A. Van Vechten.

Plans for Christmas are also maturing. An active committee, headed by C. J. Heath, is now at work arranging for the entertainment that is annually given the poor children of the city in the handsome home of the club. While the plans are not yet completed, it is understood that a program different in many respects from that of previous years will be arranged, and that the whole entertainment will be carried out on a larger and more elaborate scale than ever before. The members of the committee are: C. J. Heath, chairman; C. V. Turner, J. L. Warren, C. A. Moon and Ralph Bradfield.

As already announced, the People's Mission is arranging to feed 500 poor and worthy people at the Mission on Thanksgiving day. The Salvation Army will also give away hundreds of baskets of good things to eat, as well as a large amount of clothing and fuel.

KEYSTONE MINE SOLD

TUDOR COAL COMPANY WILL TAKE POSSESSION TODAY.

Strike May Be Called Off at Meeting Tonight—Operators Claim Victory.

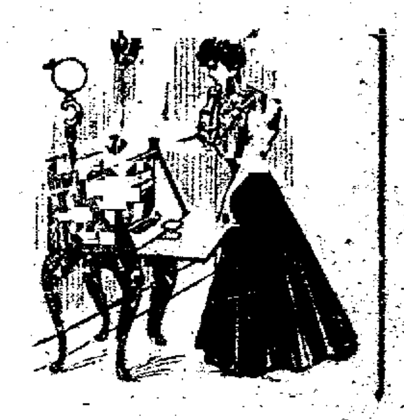

The Keystone coal mine, near Palmer park (Austin Bluffs), formerly known as the Solomon mine, has been sold by the Keystone Coal company to the Tudor Coal company. The latter company will take possession of the property today and operate it with a full force of 15 men. The deal was made through W. D. Tudor, representing the Tudor Coal company, and W. Chapman and E. J. Ultrup, representing the Keystone Coal company. The property is a wagon mine and is one of the oldest producers in the district. The purchase price has not been made public.

A report that the strike among the coal miners will be called off by the members of the Pike View local at their meeting tonight and that the Papeton local may follow suit is being persistently circulated, but no confirmation of the rumor could be had from the officers of District No. 15 last night. President John McLennan stated that he had heard nothing of it but did not know what the members of the two locals might do at their respective meetings. All the mine operators claim that they have all the men they want and have plenty of coal to supply all their customers, but this is not admitted by the union officials. One of the operators said last night:

"The miners might as well call off the strike, as the mines have all the men they need and are turning away others every day. I have never seen labor more plentiful in this city at this time of the year, and it is useless for the miners to expect a victory. Many of the strikers want the strike called off so that they can go to other places and seek work without sacrificing their membership in the union and risk being called scabs. As long as the strike is on they can not seek employment in any but union mines, and from what I have heard they will vote to call the strike off at their meeting tomorrow."

ELKS MINSTRELS DEC. 20-21

Dates Selected for Annual Show. Will Be Best Ever Given by Local Lodge.

Dates for the two performances of the Elks minstrel show have been definitely decided on. Friday and Saturday evenings, December 20 and 21, are the ones selected by the committee. For several weeks plans for the show have been materializing. The cast has been selected and rehearsals have been going on for some time.

Local talent, as usual, will give the show. A big rehearsal was held yesterday and was the most satisfactory thus far.

The proceeds from the show are to be used in sending the Elks band with the Dallas club to the annual convention in Dallas, Texas, next July, to boost the candidacy of R. L. Holland for the grand exalted rulership.

POWER OF PENNY EXEMPLIFIED

Thousands of People Buy Articles of Luxury With Smallest United States Coin.

Wonderful is the power of a penny. With the coin of smallest denomination in United States money, one can, by exercising judgment, buy articles of necessity and even reach into the realms of luxury. By dropping one penny each day into the automatic vendor at the Santa Fe depot during the month of October, 1,628 persons received in return their favorite flavors of gum or candy. An uncontrollable desire to see their names in print caused 1,643 persons to spend five cents each in the name plate device.

Although these statistics are rather surprising, they are not to be taken as a true indication of the commercial drawing power of the machines. During the height of the tourist season last July, 3,679 persons chewed gum in the Santa Fe depot, by an expenditure of one cent each. During the same period 3,846 persons satisfied themselves as to their correct weight and 2,545 had their names printed on the little aluminum cards.

A HAIR'S BREADTH ESCAPE. Do you know that every time you have a cough or cold and let it run on thinking it will just cure itself you are inviting pneumonia, consumption or some other pulmonary trouble? Don't risk it. BIG CONSIGNMENT OF TURKEYS

Five Thousand Thanksgiving Birds Received Here Yesterday—Good Business Anticipated.

For the Thanksgiving dinner, Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou will require at least 10,000 turkeys, 2,000 chickens, 1,000 each of ducks and geese and 200 gallons of oysters, according to commission men. Indications point to heavy holiday trade, the recent financial difficulty apparently having had no effect on the local market. Merchants anticipate normal business and if anything expect it to exceed that of last year. In view of such promising conditions they have made no reduction in orders and the market is plentifully supplied for the holiday season.

The first consignments of Thanksgiving turkey, about 5,000 in number, arrived in the city yesterday. Heavy consignments will also be received today and tomorrow.

STRONG TEMPERANCE SERMON

Hullinger Says the Saloon Is Expensive Institution.

Declaring that the liquor traffic destroys the happiness and blights the character of a community and an individual, and that the license system involves the city in an actual financial loss, the Rev. F. W. Hullinger, pastor of the First Congregational church in Colorado City, delivered a stirring sermon on temperance yesterday morning at the request of the W. C. T. U.

Referring to conditions in Colorado City, Mr. Hullinger declared that the city receives annually $15,000 in licenses from saloons and from fines that are in reality licenses. He made the statement that the saloons cost the city in money diverted from legitimate channels over $60,000 a year, not counting the expense of policing the city and maintaining the courts and jails. By way of illustration, he remarked that the saloons cost twice as much as all the schools and 13 times as much as the churches.

His theme was "The Safety of Young People Through the Guidance of Temperance." Speaking of temperance as the best life insurance that a person can possibly have, Mr. Hullinger quoted statistics from tables issued by the insurance companies, showing that a temperate person has the longest life expectancy.

Cured of Rheumatism by MUNYON'S REMEDY

Read what the Famous Philadelphia Baseball Umpire Writes of Munyon's 3X Rheumatism Remedy.

"228 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa. November 5, 1907.

"I had unquestionably good success with Munyon's 3X Rheumatism Remedy. Before I had finished one bottle I was cured. You may refer any and all persons afflicted to me. I. C. Luger."

Thousands of people from all parts of the country are sending us their grateful thanks for curing them of Rheumatism and other ailments. For all chronic and obstinate cases we strongly recommend our 3X Rheumatism Cure, which has been prepared expressly for chronic and obstinate cases. This remedy should be used in every instance where the joints are stiff or swollen, or have become chalky. It is especially recommended for lame backs, sciatic pains, lumbago, swollen limbs and where there is great inflammation. It is put up in a large bottle and sells for $1.00.

I want every chronic rheumatic to throw away all medicines, all liniments, all plasters, and give MUNYON'S 3X RHEUMATISM CURE a trial. No matter what your doctor may say, no matter what your druggist may say, no matter what your friends may say, no matter how prejudiced you may be against all advertised remedies, go at once to your druggist and get a bottle of the 3X RHEUMATISM CURE. (He will get it for you if he has none in stock.) There are 160 doses in a bottle, and, as one lady says, "Every tablet is worth more than a diamond of the same size." A few doses will take away all aches and pains, and a cure generally follows before one bottle is used.

Remember, this remedy contains no salicylic acid, no opium, cocaine, morphine or other harmful drugs. It is put up under the guarantee of the Pure Food and Drug Act.—MUNYON.

DUNBAR OUT OF RACE.

Throws Support of His Friends to J. C. McCreary.

Withdrawing his candidacy for the postmastership of Colorado City, J. D. Dunbar has thrown the support of his friends to J. C. McCreary for the office, thereby uniting all efforts for the one candidate. Upon the withdrawal of William Gesford from the field, Mr. McCreary was selected as a candidate by a committee of the Ministerial association. After Mr. Dunbar had been suggested it was thought best to combine support on one candidate to be selected at a joint conference, which was held Saturday evening. Mr. McCreary is a member of the staff of the Colorado City Iris.

TWO THANKSGIVING SERVICES

Special Music Will Be Feature of Each—Both Are to Be Held in Morning.

The various protestant churches of the city will unite in one Thanksgiving day service. It will be held at the First Baptist church on Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, a number of the leading ministers of the city taking part in the services. The principal Thanksgiving day sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Adna W. Moore, pastor of the Second Congregational church. The musical program will be under the direction of Morgan Jones, director of the choir of the First Baptist church.

An elaborate Thanksgiving service will also be held in Grace church on Thursday morning when the combined congregations of Grace and St. Stephen's churches will listen to a sermon by the Rev. A. N. Taft, rector of St. Stephen's. A communion service will be held at 6:45 o'clock and at 10 o'clock the special service will commence with morning prayer. Contributions of fruit and flowers for decorating the church will be received on Wednesday and after the service they will be distributed among the poor of the city. The offering will be given to the Associated Charities. The musical part of the service will be presided over by Clarence D. Sears, the organist of the Grace church who returned yesterday from an extended visit to New York.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. James, of 336 West Dale street, are visiting in northern Colorado.

Charles Johnson of Yankton, S. D., who is here for the benefit of his health, is so well pleased with Colorado Springs that he may decide to locate permanently in this vicinity. Mr. Johnson has sold his farm in South Dakota and is considering an investment here. He is staying at 228 East Pikes Peak avenue.

DEATH—Miss Mattie Waters, 16 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Waters, colored, of 619 East Monument street, died last night at 8 o'clock after a long illness. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon from the residence and will be conducted by the Rev. R. W. Johnson, pastor of St. John's Baptist church. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

BADLY HURT—Losing control of a motorcycle on which he was coasting down a steep hill near Glen Eyrie yesterday afternoon, R. Davidson, of 118 East Pikes Peak avenue, money order clerk for the Wells-Fargo Express company, was hurled with the machine over a steep embankment into a fence and painfully injured. He sustained a sprained hip and severe bruises on the neck and head.

"JOY AND THANKSGIVING"

Subject of Sermon Preached by the Rev. G. L. Patterson of Hillside Congregational Church.

"Joy and Thanksgiving" was the subject of the sermon preached by the Rev. G. L. Patterson, pastor of the Hillside Congregational church, yesterday morning. He took his text from Zephaniah III., 17: "He will save: He will rejoice over thee with joy."

In part his sermon was as follows:

Let us trace the connection between the subject of joy and that of thanksgiving. First of all, are the last two words of the text necessary? Is it possible to rejoice without joy? If not, why use the expression "with joy" as the closing suggestion of the text?

To conceive of rejoicing without joy constitutes a most striking paradox; that is to say, a truth expressed in language which at first appears inconsistent. Literature abounds in illustrations of the paradox, and even in Scripture do we find it employed, as in the eighth chapter of Mark, when our Savior utters the memorable words, "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it." The reason for these paradoxical statements appears in the verse immediately following them, which reads, "For what shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul"—the revised version uses "life" for soul," but in either rendering, a reason is given for the thought of the preceding verse, which, while on the surface inconsistent, nevertheless contains a great truth. In a similar way is there a truth to be found in the statement that man frequently rejoices without joy, strange though it may seem. This would, of course, be impossible if the word was used in its original and strict sense, because "rejoice" is but the verb form of the thought contained in the word "joy," as is the word "do" the verb corresponding to the noun "deed." Strictly speaking, rejoicing is but our joy in action and influencing the happiness of others. The word is commonly used, however, to express a somewhat wide set of meanings. Individuals are sometimes said to rejoice over a calamity which has befallen an enemy. Men are said to rejoice over plans for revenge successfully carried out. Others are regarded as rejoicing at the growth of an evil such as the reinstatement of the saloon in cities may be characterized as instances of rejoicing without true joy, for the morbid pleasure afforded an evil mind by the gratification of the instinct of revenge or by the growth of a public evil, is but counterfeit joy, and unworthy of the name. True joyfulness leaves a lasting impression, while revenge in the long run, is bitter, not sweet, and bogus happiness resulting from any cause whatsoever is but "for a season."

Joy Has Divine Meaning.

Man, in his imperfection, may at times rejoice without experiencing genuine joy, but not so our Heavenly Father, for "he will rejoice over thee with joy." A great dignity is thus given to this short word, for in its meaning lies elements of divinity. It is the term to be employed by our Savior, and is mentioned by the Redeemer himself, as in the fifteenth chapter of John, when Jesus says, "These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full." We hear much regarding Christ's love, his humility, and the agony at Gethsemane. Let us emphasize these things. Let us hold before men our Redeemer's self sacrificing love, yet never may we forget that Jesus led a life of joy. Hold this before the Christian soldier, and it will cheer him in his struggles with sin.

What is genuine joy? It is certainly a mysterious emotion, and there appears to be a scarcity of terms with which to define it. As one form of happiness, in many instances, it involves the gratification of the will, the source of desire. And in many more, joy requires existing conditions to be simply in harmony with the will. Its meaning appeals to us, however, as much more inclusive. Goodness enters into joy, else it would signify mere pleasure. Furthermore, in considering its relationship to God, we adopt the conclusion that an athiest, if ever we should meet one, could not be regarded as joyous, be he ever so moral and his earthly prosperity ever so great. As all physical substances possess elasticity, though sometimes slight, even so do the elements of the soul possess the same quality. Mere pleasure is joy lacking its God-given elasticity, and is therefore a quality of the objective mind, rather than of the soul. Joy, on the other hand, includes not only happiness but hope, that most elastic and buoyant quality of the soul, upon which rests moral courage, tenacity of purpose and the belief in mortality itself. Joy includes the recognition of a higher power, and the Godless person, though pleasure may be his, remains joyless. The existence of a higher power being recognized, the soul is cognizant of a loftier truth than would be involved in the belief that back of all nature existed a power simply greater than all others, for the higher represents a larger conception than does that which is simply greater. A belief in a higher power includes faith in the goodness of God, whereas the recognition of God as merely greater than man would lay the emphasis on our Creator's might and ignore his love. Now, it is impossible to recognize the existence of God as a higher, personal power, without attributing to him the giving of all blessings not traceable to man, and, in turn, attributing to our Heavenly Father the prompting of all human motives of generosity until the heart can sing, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." Thus does joy involve appreciation of God's goodness. This, when combined with the feeling that man can actually serve the great purpose of God by doing his will, results in thanksgiving. In this way is joy holy happiness and thanksgiving its culmination.

A General Thanksgiving.

This season should be one, not only of special thanksgiving, but also for that which is general in its nature. Let us all consider with care the many special and individual reasons for our giving thanks to God. At the same time, may we be thankful for his goodness, for his boundless grace, for his self-revealing nature, for his redeeming work through Christ, for his inspired word, and for the daily privilege we possess of communing directly with our Master.

Thanksgiving invigorates all powers. Invariably does it lead to reflection. In fact, the origin of the words "think" and that of "thank" was much the same. Today, the thankless person is ever a thoughtless one. Thanksgiving is also the highest expression of loyalty and breeds boundless Christian courage. It is the culmination of Christian joy. How thankful, to all appearance, are the birds of nature. Although we derive but a suggestion from their conduct, can we not make it of value in our daily lives when we see them sip from the mountain stream, then lift their heads aloft and move their slender beaks as if saying in the language of Whittier:

"O favors every year made new!
O gifts with rain and sunshine sent!
The bounty overruns our due,
The fullness shames our discontent."

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Why?

The question is often asked, "Why are Dern's Coffees superior to other brands?"

Given the same material, the result of the finished product in Coffees depends upon knowing how to cure, clean roast, and then being willing to give the time, care and expense necessary to accomplish the best result.

The ABILITY and WILLINGNESS to do all this explains "WHY" the Dern Brands lead in Coffees.

ECONOMICAL HOUSEKEEPERS

Marion Harland, recognized as the world's greatest culinary authority, says she wouldn't have a coal range in the house. The gas range is safer, cleaner, cheaper and the better cooker. The best steel range made is sold by the Gas Co. at No. 107 East Kiowa, for only $16. All economical housekeepers use them. Have YOU one?

EXTRA!

For looks and service there is nothing to add to a charm of a living room like a fine gas log and mantel. We rent them complete for $3 a year. You'll be amazed at their beauty. Come in No. 107 East Kiowa and see for yourself. You'll surely want one. They fill with water, which prevents excessive dryness of air.

A SIGN OF GOOD CHEER

There is no sign of good cheer to warm up a house these cold days like a gas heater. Right now you can buy a fine aluminum finish gas heater, with pilot light—one of the best heaters ever made, for only $2.00. It costs but a postage stamp worth of gas to run one an hour. Call at No. 107 East Kiowa and get one before they are gone. Or phone "Our Girl," Main 2400.

Mantles With Backbones

We have the genuine Welshach mantles—the kind that stand up under any jar. The best at 30c and some almost as good for 25c. They are the best made.

We also have some Edison miniature electric lighting outfits to light up your Christmas tree. They add much to a tree's brightness and the cost is little.

CAKES LIKE MOTHER MADE

You remember the griddle cakes mother made? They were good, were they not? Never could get any like them anywhere, could you? Well, we have a new patent griddle cake pan that so distributes the heat that no one can help making cakes just like you relish. Only $1.00 the pan costs, and only a few of them here. Newest thing out. Call at No. 107 East Kiowa and see them.

Jeffries Chimneys

We have all kinds of gas chimneys that are almost as strong as Jeffries. They don't break and crack like the poor ones do. The best at 25c.

If you can't use a fine steel gas range don't forget the fine hot plates from 35c up, and all sizes. They do fine cooking too.

HERE IS WHERE YOU GET THE WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

MADE IN COLORADO SPRINGS

Genuine Gas Coke is made right here in this city. It is better and cheaper than coal; $5.50 a ton equals two tons of coal. Phone Main 2400. Prompt service and remember with coke there are no clinkers, dirt or muss.

MOST WELCOME OF XMAS GIFTS

There is nothing more suitable or appreciated than a fine gas reading lamp for Christmas. We have them from seventy-five cents up. Some beauties at $1.25 that are really a ten-dollar value. Ask to see them and have one laid away. You'll regret it if you don't. Only a few left. Call at No. 107 East Kiowa or phone Main 2400. Nothing so good ever shown here before.

The Best of Tubing

We have the best rubber gas hose at only ten cents a foot, with no charge extra for the rubber connecting ends. In either green or red shades and any length to suit.

Twenty-five cents buys a "stove" that fits over any gas jet. It's fine to heat baby's milk on. We keep everything in gas appliances and all at prices to suit.

FIVE YEARS AGO A YOUNG LADY

Bought an electric iron, and paid $10 for it. You can buy the latest improved one now for $4 complete. They are worth $100 in toil they save a month. Call in and see them for yourself. They will last a life time. Nothing could be better or more appropriate for a wedding or Christmas present. They were never so cheap in cost or so well and serviceably made. Our supply won't last forever.

Cook Books Free

We are giving away fine cook books free. Come in and get one and find out how to properly roast your Thanksgiving turkey in a gas range.

If you can't come to our office "Phone Our Girl," Main 2400, and our representative will call upon you immediately. Whether it be an order for a mantle or a ton of coke we give PROMPT SERVICE.

USED BY THE BEST PEOPLE

Society has taken them up simply because there is nothing better made. We refer to the "Vulcan" gas toaster. Only 25c. Your toast browns evenly owing to the clever construction of this ideal toaster. Call at No. 107 East Kiowa and get one before they are all gone, or phone Main 2400. The supply won't last—can't at this price.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON AND YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

THE PERIL OF MISUSED STRENGTH

The International Sunday School Lesson for December 1 is, "The Death of Samson." Judges 16:21-31.

By William T. Ellis.

The noise of crackling pillars and crashing walls has filled the world of late, even as in Samson's time, because men of might have perverted their power. Because the strong have misused their strength, ruthlessly crushing whatever hindered their mad struggles for wealth and power, the whole continent has manifested an ominous reaction. As Shakespeare says:

Oh, it is excellent
To have a giant's strength; but it is tyrannous
To use it like a giant."

There be many who would relate the old story of Samson to the nursery; but the need for his life message was never more acute than today. He is one of those characters whose usefulness consists in serving as a warning to his race. Samson is great in literature as a horrible example. He represents the strong gone wrong. A man of ascetic vows, who should have been a spiritual leader, he became a buffoon, a player of boys' pranks, a flighty cracker of jokes, a sensual voluptuary, disregarding his primary obligations of patriotism and piety.

Some Samsons Gone Wrong.

The public speaker who tickles men's ears when he ought to stir their hearts; the young men who are addle-pated patrons of pleasure when they ought to be assuming the dignities and responsibilities of real manhood; the idle, favored classes who regard the world as a toy, rather than as a tool; the children of noble parents, and inheritors of sacred vows, who render no honor to their forbears because they give no service to their time; the irresponsible rich who think that the public is merely a mine to be ruthlessly exploited; the politician who is patching his own district fences when he should be a statesman serving the nation; the educated, prosperous and "respectable" men who stoop to sensual pleasures—all these are present-day examples of Samsons who have made themselves objects of scorn and contempt, instead of being objects of honor and affection.

Samson was long on hair, but short on head. He had more muscle than manliness. He was a "good fellow" but a bad man. Strong in sinew, he was weak in will. A private vengeance incited him more intensely than a public service. His lack of dignity was not the wise man's unbending, but the fool's lack of a sense of fitness. The mightiest man of his day, he lent his strength to the playing of childish pranks, and finally permitted it to depart through him at the hands of a woman. Is it any wonder that he seems to have had many boon companions but no real friends, and that he is the one caricature in the whole gallery of scriptural characters?

Two Kind of Samsons.

With all the force of tremendous recent events behind it, the teaching of Samson's life should be driven home that "noblesse oblige" privilege carries obligations, power creates duties. "They that are strong," said the Great Teacher, "ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please themselves." This western world, above all other lands, needs to be told, in prophet tones, that power, be it financial power, political power, intellectual power, social power, or the power of position, may honorably be employed only for high and altruistic ends. This is the truth which has given vitality and force to the ominous Socialistic propaganda of the day. Deep in his heart, the common man feels the injustice of the possession of vast power with no sense of stewardship, social service or patriotic duty.

The lesson is clear for all men's reading that the aggregate of the weak and the ill-used constitute in themselves another Samson, to whom the lines of Milton may be applied:

"There is a poor, blind Samson in this land,
Shorn of his strength and bound with bands of steel,
Who may, in some grim revel, raise his hand,
And shake the pillars of the commonweal."

The Philistines who fell beneath the ruins of festal hall which Samson wrecked had scorned and despised their prisoner. They thought themselves safe, and him helpless. One need not be considered an alarmist to say that their case is a monition to our own times.

The Old, Old Warning.

"We've had no end of a lesson," wrote the British poet after the Boer war; but the disheartening fact is that the most obvious lessons seem the hardest to learn. There never has been a teacher, a philosopher, an observer of life, from the earliest days of human society, who has not uttered warnings against that monstrous big fact which we veil under the polite phrase, "the social evil." Yet every large community, in our own land and time, sees men planting their feet in the ways that lead to this death.

Everybody lives as if nobody had ever lived before. The latest youth who calls a routine life of respectable work and pure pleasures "slow" and monotonous, thinks he has made a brand-new discovery. He considers the home folks "old fogies;" he wants "life" and "excitement." Just as if that same folly had not been committed by millions before him, including this husky Hebrew, Samson. Whole nations have gone to ruin by the path of sensuality; whole nations today lie shamed and weaklings before the face of stronger powers for the self-same reason. Whoever is tempted by wandering desires and who is not?—should remember that every man who puts his head in Delilah's lap is shorn of his strength. Without any prudery, or false modesty, let the teachers of men say so, instead of conjuring up a whole army of offenses against man-made regulations. Their failure to do so is one reason why many strong men, who know real life, have no time for much of the day's religious teaching.

The Ex-Slaves Strength.

Every simpering beauty thinks she alone is responsible for the pretty face with which she was born. Every man of brains takes credit to himself for his wisdom. Every giant acts as though he had made his own riches. Samson sported with his strength as though it were altogether his own, to do with as he pleased. Whereas the deep truth runs that we have, only because we have been given; abilities are only "talents," given in custody by a kind Providence; the helped are the strong.

Old "Uncle Billy," a Virginia ex-slave, was telling me the simple, compelling story of his own life. Of unknown age at present, he still chops all the firewood—cords of it—for a large household that uses no other fuel. "'Deed, I doesn't know how I does it. Why, I has the rheumatiz so bad that I can't hardly h'ist my arm this high"—painfully raising it a few inches—"but I does it somehow. I'll tell you why. The good Master, he helps me. He shore does. He's right beside me all the day. He says, you know, 'Whithersoever ye may be, there I am, too.' I knows it, so I does. And some day"—here the wrinkled old black face took on a new light—"he's gwine to gimme a robe what'll outshine the sun, outshine the sun."

Is that faith too simple, too childlike? Nay, despite all its ignorances and misquotations, it is the very faith for the times. The old negro has grasped the heart of the truth of God's fatherhood. He cares for his own; he helps them, in matters small as in matters great. It is the spiritual teaching which underlies the Samson story; Samson was not strong in himself; he was made strong by Jehovah. When he got out of right relations with Jehovah, he lost his strength.

Easy as it was for Delilah to cut Samson's locks, it is equally easy for the secular spirit to sap the secret strength of a Christian's soul. Samson had a careless disregard for his peerless heritage; one's spirituality, which is surest strength and sweetest joy, should be guarded more zealously than life. For it may be lost, even by the strongest. No man is too high in Christian work and usefulness to be above the danger of losing his heart's best treasure, through inattention, through worldliness, sensuality and forgetfulness of God. God may forgive and restore, even as he did Samson; but not to the old estate. The returned prodigal always bears traces of the far country on his spirit.

LET US GIVE THANKS.

Terse Comments on the Uniform Prayer Meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies—Christian Endeavor, Baptist Young People's Union, Epworth League, etc.—for December 1, is, "The Beauty and Utility of Gratitude." Ps. 34:1-10. (A Thanksgiving Consecration Meeting.)

(By William T. Ellis.)

These are great days in which to be alive. The stir and ferment of society may trouble some, but to the person who wants to count in life these things spell opportunity. In this plastic social and political condition of our day there exists a rare chance for men of noble ideals and altruistic aims to impress themselves upon their time. If thoughtful men, patriotic men, Christian men seize this occasion, and do not abandon it to the demagogue or to the man of ill-balanced views, this generation may accomplish wonders for the progress of human society. And surely this is a profound reason for thanksgiving.

Gratitude seems the more gracious because of its rarity. Whoever ceaselessly "remembers his mercies" is a marked man by the hosts of heaven.

A testing is a blessing. The financial stringency which lately has affected the commercial world has been by no means an unmixed evil. It has proved the good, as well as revealed the bad. It has set the people to a careful accounting of their resources. Men, as well as banks, have been looking well to their assets. Things really worth while have taken on a new value. So it is possible to be grateful for what seemed at first like catastrophe.

They are in some degree great who remember to be grateful.

God gives much and takes little; men remember the little taken and forget to return thanks for the much that is given.

World-neighborliness is on the increase. The ties that bind nations together are steadily growing stronger. Distances are being annihilated more and more; and all of us are being drawn nearer, in understanding and sympathy, to the uttermost parts of the earth. This is a deep reason for thanksgiving. The oneness of the world ennobles man and glorifies God. That so many people are concerned for the whole world's welfare is a token of the increase of the divine spirit in human hearts: "for God so loved the world."

"Let the redeemed of the Lord say so." The voice of such praise and testimony is heard as glad music in the courts of heaven. If you have been redeemed from sin, from daily difficulties, say so into the listening ear that waits for every note of gratitude.

The apostle's rules for a royal life is this: "Whatsoever ye do, in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him." Suppose you take these great words into your own heart as your rule also.

The selfish and beggarly soul is never thankful. The professional mendicant is sincerely grateful. A sense of gratitude distinguishes the large and generous heart. It takes a noble mind to appreciate mercy. If we never praise God for his goodness, if our prayers are not winged by praise, then we may seriously question the depth and largeness of our nature.

Just to be glad is praise.

God's dealings are not on a give-and-take basis. He does not give to us just for the sake of getting gifts from us. There is nothing in the nature of a business transaction about God's relations to us. His bounties all are prompted by abundant mercy and boundless love. He gives because he is God.

A godly life is the best psalm.

A surrendered heart makes music in heaven. For God's gift to us he asks the gift of ourself to him. Nothing less will satisfy him. By his mercies he is moving us to him. His every gift is a repetition of his invitation: "My child, give me thy heart."

Our pleasure pleases God. Our Father is content to know that he has made his child happy.

God has never stinted his giving. His bounty has been measureless since the beginning of time. No man can name or understand the free gifts of God. To be giving, giving, giving, and to keep no count of his gifts is part of the very nature of God, for his name is love.

SOMETHING DOING AMONG LAYMEN

Religious circles are being stirred by the remarkable times of unprecedented interest among the laymen of the church in the matter of missions. The offering at the recent Protestant Episcopal convention of three quarters of a million of dollars from the church's men for foreign missions was in itself without precedent. The convention of men lately held was marked by the same strain of resolution to assume the financial burden of Christian extension throughout the world.

Now from several widely separated points it is reported that the laymen of the churches have undertaken the unusual. At a recent banquet at Topeka, Kan., one hundred picked men of the city decided that the city's annual gift of between seven and eight thousand dollars to foreign misions is entirely inadequate. They resolved to raise the sum to $20,000 and to endeavor to secure it by subscription within 60 days.

St. Joseph, Mo., similarly decided to increase its offering from $12,000 to $50,000, and already one congregation in St. Joseph has pledged itself for one-fifth this total amount.

Even more striking was a demonstration in Toronto where the selected company of denomination representatives gathered to consider this subject. All the offerings are to be made through the regular church channels and for regular denominational missionary objects. Last year, it was found, Toronto gave $141,000 for foreign missions. After a careful canvass of the situation the men have undertaken to increase this amount to half a million dollars. Toronto's population is 300,000 persons. This means one and two-thirds dollars for every man, woman and child in the city, yet the money is to come almost wholly from the communicant protestant church membership. Following the example of Toronto, Brantford, Ont., with a population of 20,000, which last year averaged $2.30 per church member for missionary purposes, has agreed to increase the amount to $5.00 per member. Hamilton, Ont., with a population of 100,000 averaged last year $3.50 per church member to purely missionary purposes. The men of the churches have undertaken to double this amount. London, Ont., which has a population of 50,000, last year gave $2.70 per church member. The men are undertaking to make the amount $5.00 per church member this year. These meetings were held under the auspices of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, an organization of laymen which receives no money for itself and undertakes no missionary work on its own account. Its representatives are holding men's meetings throughout the country.

MANILA BAY BEING FORTIFIED

Mines Are Being Planted at the Entrance, by Order of Washington Government.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—In pursuance of orders from Washington, work on the fortifications in the Philippines is being rushed, and men are laboring night and day on Corregidor island at the entrance to Manila bay and Grande island at Olongapo. Already the mines, recently received on the transport Warren, which sailed from this harbor two months ago, are being planted in the harbor at Manila, while powerful searchlights have been placed at all points that skirt the Pacific. This information reached San Francisco today upon the arrival this morning of the naval collier Justin, which had been stationed with the fleet of warships at Cavite. The Justin carried 87 guns from Cavite to Corregidor island, and these are rapidly being mounted.

DUMA PLEDGES ITS LOYALTY

In Address to Emperor, New Legislative Body of Russia, Says It Will Work for Government.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—The lower house of parliament has made discussion of the address to the emperor the subject of the first general debate November 26. The address follows:

"Most gracious Sir: Your Imperial majesty has deigned to greet the members of the third duma and to invoke the Almighty's blessings on the legislative work before us. We therefore take the liberty to express personally to your majesty our feelings of gratitude to the supreme head of Russia and our thanks for the right of popular representation granted to Russia and secured by the fundamental laws of the empire. Have confidence in us, sire. We wish to devote all our ability, knowledge and experience to strengthening the form of government which was given new life by the imperial will in the manifesto of October 30, 1905; to pacify the fatherland, to assure respect for the laws, to develop popular education, to promote the general welfare, to be a buttress for the greatness and power of individualism in Russia and to thereby justify the confidence reposed in us by his majesty and the fatherland."

The drafting commission refused all the references to the autocracy and constitution demanded by the reactionists and Constitutional Democrats respectively, but M. Guskoff, leader of the Octoberists, appeased the latter by agreeing to formally recognize in a speech from the floor the existence of a constitutional regime in Russia.

LISBON UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Rebellion Is Said to Be Rampant in the Navy.

LISBON, Nov. 24.—The city of Lisbon is now practically under martial law. Three generals are known to have been relieved of their commands, and, according to reports, some 300 political prisoners have been placed on board a cruiser which left this port immediately afterward. Their version of the rumor is that the officers of the cruiser were disaffected. Rebellion is said to be rampant in the navy.

An official statement, given out by the government tonight, declared that the situation in Portugal has been greatly misrepresented. It says:

"The fantastic rumors concerning members of the royal family, the attitude of the military forces and political leaders as well as the stories of an outbreak against order are absolutely without foundation."

GERMANY'S DEFENSE COSTLY

Plans to Spend Over a Billion Dollars in Next Ten Years.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—The ministry of marine has prepared estimates of the probable cost of the navy for the 10 years, 1908-17 for submission to the reichstag. The total is $1,043,000,000, or an average of $104,250,000 yearly. The expenditures, begining with $84,750,000 in 1908, rise to $101,250,000 in 1909; $110,000,000 in 1910 and $115,250,000 in 1911, thence declining to $104,250,000 in 1917. The ministry's estimate, officially submitted to the reichstag in 1906 for the same period, totals $245,500,000 less, so dream, a phantasmagoria of monstrous powers, lit up with an intolerable, almost an infernal radiance. This much I did gather; that Dr. Schermerhorn had achieved what the greatest minds before him had barely outlined. Yes, and more.

"Becquerel, the Curies, Rutherford—they were playing with the letters of the Greek alphabet, Alphas, Gammas and Rhos, while the simple, gentle old boy that I served had read the secret. From the molten eruptions of the racked earth he had taken gases and potencies that are nameless. By what methods of combination and refining I do not know, he produced something that was to be the final word of power. Control—control—that was all that lacked.

"Reduced to its simplest terms, it means this; the doctor had something as much greater than radium as radium is greater than the pitchblende of which a thousand tons are melted to the one ounce of extract. And the incredible energies of this he proposed to divide into departments of activity.

"One manifestation should be light, a light that would illuminate the world. Another was to make motive power so cheap that the work of the world could be done in an hour out of the day. Some idea he had of healing properties. Yes; he was to cure mankind. Or kill, kill as no man had ever killed, did he choose. The armies and navies of the powers would be at his mercy. Magnetism was to be his slave. Aerial navigation, transmutation of metals, the screening of gravity—does this sound like delirium? Sometimes I think it was.

"That night he turned over to me the key of the large chest and his ledger. The latter he bade me read. It was a complete jumble. You have seen it. . . . We were up a good part of the night with our pet volcano. It was suffering from internal disturbances. So, the doctor would say indulgently, when a particularly active rock came bounding down our way. 'Little play-antics-to-exhibit now that the work is finished.

"In the morning he insisted on my leaving him alone and going down to give the orders. I took the ledger, intending to send it aboard. It saved my life possibly. Solomon's bullets deflected slightly, I think, in passing through the heavy paper. Slade has told you about my flight. I ought to have gone straight up the arroyo . . . Yet I hardly could have made it . . . I did not see him again, the doctor. My last glimpse . . . the old man—I remember now how the gray had spread through his beard—he was growing old—it had been aging labor. He stood there at his laboratory door and the mountain spouted and thundered behind.

"'We will a name-to-suit-properly gif it,' he said, as I left him. 'It shall make us as the gods.' We will call it celestium.

"I left him there smiling. Smiling happily. The greatest force of his age—if he had lived. Very wise, very ample a kind of old child. 'May I trouble you for a light?' Thanks."

Dining Room Elegance

The dining room is where you will do the honors of your home next Thursday.

In dining room furniture we show what we are confident is the most artistic, the newest and most perfect furniture produced.

There are different grades at different prices, but each grade has an individuality and a true art effect different from the usual.

In golden oak, Flemish oak, weathered oak or mahogany, modern or Colonial, you will find here the highest types at very low prices, and you will also find that our prices on "quality" furniture are no higher than those asked for elsewhere for furniture of the commonplace.
